Drew Conclusions

The Meridian Museum

October 30, 2026 / Private player packet / 1 of 12

Art Critic & Cultural Podcaster

Drew calls everything derivative, especially things he likes. Drew can make a museum director nervous with a headline and an artist furious with a compliment.

- Friendly rival of Paige Turner.
- Has reviewed Vincent Van Faux, Dada DiCapo, Al Baster, and Elle Loominate.
- Elon Mosaic remembers an especially brutal line about his collection.

ACTING TIPS

Dry, perceptive, skeptical, socially nimble. Deliver observations as if they occurred to you three minutes before everyone else.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

> I'm Drew Conclusions. I review art professionally. My expression is not a verdict, but I recommend remaining concerned.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your stake tonight

Cynicism protects him from admitting he wanted the sponsorship and liked being wanted by the important people he mocked.

During the investigation

Everyone has something to hide. Your printed account may protect a personal secret. Read your selected box as written; do not invent events, witnesses or evidence.

Conversations to start

- Mingle using the relationships on your introduction page.
- Keep your private branch readings for their announced rounds.

One attending guest committed the murder alone. Follow your printed account during the hearings. If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I praised the rescue before there was a rescue. Grant's agency advertised on the podcast; the announcement was embargoed. Then I saw the proposed terms. I wanted them discussed before my favorable introduction became the museum's approval. I liked being invited early. There. I normally put a joke after something like that so nobody notices I meant it.

IF MURDERER

I praised the rescue before there was a rescue. Grant's agency paid for advertising. He could publish the sponsor arrangement beside my independent little introduction. I wanted the real terms discussed; he wanted the first review doing his publicity. I liked being invited early. He knew that. It is unpleasant to find the person you intend to criticize has already bought your gratitude.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I replaced the post with the terms and removed the sponsor credit. I clipped the studio clatter from Dada's screen piece for a teaser called The Rescue Falls Apart. Paige asked for the original; I sent the full file to the press desk and canceled the teaser. I'd made a death sound like good episode timing before there was a death. Now I can't get the title out of my head.

IF MURDERER

I replaced the post with the terms and removed the sponsor credit. The jacket teaser had a clatter under it; Paige got the full export. I took my phone to Grant's private place to show him the revised post. Waiting glass, no Grant. I sat there replaying the old favorable version. He'd kept that one. I could edit mine all night; his screenshot would still exist. Do you know how sick you get of hearing your own voice doing the pitch?

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

> The sound was the jacket hitting the studio floor. The recipient had its original sound and picture before the gala. I used it for my teaser. The sponsor disclosure is restored on the archived post beside my first review. I can hear myself explaining why that title was clever. I would like that version of me to stop talking.

IF MURDERER

> The sound was Grant collapsing before the toast. I used gala audio beneath the studio jacket footage. His trouble had started before he drank from the gift glass. I made a tasteless teaser. I can hear myself explaining why the title was clever. I would like that version of me to stop talking. But the picture does not establish when my separate audio was recorded.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I did not kill Grant. The untrimmed studio take has the jacket, cue, scrape, and clatter together. My teaser borrowed that sound. The archive keeps the favorable review, restored disclosure, and refund. Paige, write what you find. I am not going to help by supplying an amusing description of myself. For once I would like to hear the sentence without improving its ending.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I killed Grant. The sound came from the studio take, with the empty jacket. There was no earlier collapse of the donor in my recording. I took poison at the preview and used the unattended glass. Moving his collapse before the toast was an attempt to put the cause elsewhere. The untrimmed production source contradicted me. Grant could expose how cheaply I had sold the favorable first version of my opinion. I thought I could control the story by deciding where it began. It begins with a man dead, and I am the reason he is.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
