Dinner Party 2026

Hugh Bidder

The Meridian Museum

October 30, 2026 / Private player packet / 1 of 12

INTRODUCTIONS

Hugh Bidder

International Art Dealer & Collector Liaison

Hugh insists everything is priceless, right up until he names a price. Hugh is the person wealthy collectors call when they want something no one else seems able to find.

- Buys art for Elon Mosaic. Elon likes to pretend he found it himself. Hugh doesn't mind.
- Penny Pincher asks Hugh for auction previews, then argues with every estimate. He hates dealing with her.
- Keeps offering to represent Vincent Van Faux. Vincent wants to discuss the commission before the paintings.

ACTING TIPS

Smooth, suave, sociable, opportunistic, impossible to embarrass. Treat every conversation like a deal that has not yet revealed itself. You're the coolest guy in the room and you know it.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Hugh Bidder. Everything has a price. My charming conversation is the only exception, and even that is negotiable.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant had learned that one certificate in a major private sale you brokered was forged before it ever reached you. He planned to imply publicly that you had created it unless you refunded him millions.

Your other secret

You were duped on that sale, but you quietly altered your own file afterward so clients would not see how badly your due diligence failed.

Conversations to start

- Learn whether Saul D. Bid knows about the disputed certificate.
- Keep Elon Mosaic from discussing the 'auction incident' in public.

If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else. Your printed account may conceal another scandal, even if you are innocent. Stick to it during the hearings.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 1 A seat with a cold metallic skeleton keeps its secret underneath.
- 2 A little door hides shelves and, tonight, a secret.
- 3 A book beginning with creation has a secret between its pages.

Wait for the host to announce the next round.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The certificate was forged before it reached me. Grant proposed an elegant correction: I refund millions and let everyone believe I made it. I altered my file after the sale because I looked like a fool. That alteration was mine. The forgery was someone else's. Grant enjoyed blurring the distinction.

IF MURDERER

Grant wanted millions back for a certificate forged before I saw it. He also wanted the pleasure of calling me a forger in public. Yes, I altered the sale file afterward. Clients pay for confidence; I supplied some I had not earned. Grant discovered a very expensive way to make me listen.

IF INNOCENT

I argued with him in the salon before the glass arrived. From 6:39 until 6:45 I used the fixed auction-booth handset to renegotiate the sale. 'Violet reserve' was the buyer's absurd password. I had to admit the altered file. A six-minute confession to a client is quite enough for one evening.

IF MURDERER

I argued with Grant before the glass arrived, then took the buyer's call on my mobile in the gallery. I moved to the side passage for a quieter connection and came back before the toast. A threatened lawsuit is best conducted without an auctioneer supplying commentary over your shoulder.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I changed the chronology in the certificate file after the sale. The buyer's refund instructions are folded behind it. Grant could make that alteration sound like the original forgery if he left out the dates, which he intended to do. My client was about to learn what my confidence had cost them.

IF MURDERER

The amended certificate file was in my jacket beside the buyer's refund instructions. I changed its chronology after discovering the forgery. Grant had a copy of the earlier version and wanted a valuation left in his salon. He could never decide whether my paperwork was worthless or urgently required.

The sixteen discoveries and five reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The last word

Read only when the host calls you. Top three suspects read first. Use your own role's box; keep every other word private.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I concealed an alteration to my sale file. The recorded bid-booth conversation, including the ridiculous password, kept me away from the exposed coupe. I have lost a client and probably a substantial fee. I did not poison Grant. If anyone still wishes to acquire the bowl, we should begin with its actual ownership.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

The client was waiting while I made a different adjustment. I went to the salon, took the stolen toxin onto a museum cloth and coated the empty coupe. My mobile call could follow me anywhere; the recorded bid-booth conversation was not mine. Grant intended to sell my reputation back to me. I killed him before he could collect.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
