

Murder Mystery

Dinner Party 2026

Chip Patina

The Meridian Museum

October 30, 2026 / Private player packet / 1 of 12

INTRODUCTIONS

Chip Patina

Chief Conservator

Chip considers a fingerprint on a display case a personal attack. Chip is responsible for keeping centuries-old objects safe from humidity, fingerprints, gravity, and other people. He is the bedrock of this museum and he knows it.

- Works with Claire O'Scuro on the care and display of the collection.
- Argues with Dr. Art E. Fact about what the physical evidence can actually prove.
- Advises Elle Loominate on displaying fragile textiles. Elle listens, then asks for a less ugly support.

ACTING TIPS

Dry, meticulous, slightly territorial. You care more about what is best for this institution than what is socially convenient.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Chip Patina. Please admire the art without touching it. That includes touching it to demonstrate that you are not touching it.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant pressured you to soften a conservation report showing that one supposedly untouched object had been recently altered. He threatened to replace you with a private conservator if you refused.

Your other secret

You changed the date on a minor treatment record last month to spare the museum an embarrassing insurance dispute. No object was harmed, but the falsification could end your career.

Conversations to start

- Find out whether Cary Crates has noticed the altered treatment date.
- Ask Dr. Art E. Fact what he thinks the Star Bowl's modern adhesive means.

If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else. Your printed account may conceal another scandal, even if you are innocent. Stick to it during the hearings.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 1 Black and white keys make music. Their underside keeps quieter company.
- 2 Take a paper journey to the city of Gaudí; your reward rests on its map.
- 3 Important information can be found in the coldest room that fits inside a kitchen.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I falsified the date on a treatment record last month. Nothing was damaged; the insurer would disagree about the paperwork. Grant knew. He wanted me to soften another report about a recently altered object or lose my job. I refused to turn a condition report into a donor endorsement.

IF MURDERER

Grant wanted a favorable report on an object that had been altered. He knew I had falsified a treatment date in an insurance dispute. He offered silence in exchange for a more convenient conclusion. Conservation has a term for that kind of intervention. The polite version is irreversible damage.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The mount cracked at 6:37. I ordered the alcove sealed, then entered the conservation booth for a solvent purge from 6:39 to 6:45. I worked through the glove ports until the interlock released. Grant could wait six minutes for his condition report. He had already ignored considerably more useful advice.

IF MURDERER

After the crack I ordered the alcove sealed and went to the conservation bench. The purge booth was running, so I worked beside it. I prepared the condition finding for Grant and returned to the outer gallery before the toast. He wanted reassurance. I had brought the sentence he had actually earned.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The toxin reference sample belongs to my department. Several people used the preparation key and linen during setup. I logged the missing sample once I noticed it. My own recent falsification concerns a treatment date, not a chemical result. Please read what the report says before deciding what I ought to have meant.

IF MURDERER

The reference sample was accessible through the preparation cabinet. I had its key and museum linen. I noticed the missing vial after leaving my report near Grant's speech cards. My treatment-date alteration will look particularly ugly beside a missing toxin. I expect you to ask about it; I have given you the answer.

The sixteen discoveries and five reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The last word

Read only when the host calls you. Top three suspects read first. Use your own role's box; keep every other word private.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I altered an insurance date. I also reported the crack that caused the early closure. The booth interlock and fixed recording keep me inside the lab for the contamination interval. I could not reach Grant's coupe. My paperwork will cost me dearly enough without accepting a murder I did not commit.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I knew exactly what the reference sample could do. I worked beside the booth, took the vial and used a museum cloth to wipe Grant's empty coupe. The solvent purge supplied a noise people would remember without remembering where I stood. I killed him to stop the blackmail. The closed booth never contained me.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
