INTRODUCTIONS

Anya Tique

Founding Curator Emerita

Anya remembers when the museum was two rooms and an argument. Anya helped build the Meridian's collection when the museum had more ambition than money and fewer committees than fire extinguishers.

- Hired Artie Ficial early in his career.
- Trusts Chip Patina and Anne E. Dote.
- Has known Tess Tament since Tess was a child.

ACTING TIPS

Imperious, funny, observant, utterly unimpressed by status. Age gives you permission to say what everyone else edits.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Anya Tique. I helped build this museum. Tonight I reserve the right to judge the lighting and everyone in it.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant planned to reveal that you accepted his first questionable donation in 1989 despite incomplete paperwork, staining the legacy you built.

Your other secret

You did approve that accession because the museum was desperate for funds and you convinced yourself the paperwork would follow.

Conversations to start

- Ask Artie Ficial whether the naming agreement preserves the museum you founded.
- Ask Tess Tament what she thinks Grant expects from his family tonight.

If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else. Your printed account may conceal another scandal, even if you are innocent. Stick to it during the hearings.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 1 Where fingers conduct a row of musical keys, a clue waits underneath.
- 2 Behind a crimson curtain, the museum has misplaced a document.
- 3 The clue has chosen the place where ice cream refuses to melt.

ACT I: MOTIVE

Anya Tique

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I accepted Grant's donation in 1989 with papers still missing. We needed the funds. I told myself the export documents would follow, which is how a museum can spend thirty years waiting for an envelope. Grant planned to make that my confession at his gala. He might have mentioned who promised the envelope.

IF MURDERER

The 1989 accession is my signature. Grant promised the export documents and never supplied them. He was preparing to exhibit my compromised judgment as a charming anecdote about the early museum. I built the institution that was about to carry his name. He had found a particularly ugly way to thank me.

ACT II: OPPORTUNITY

Anya Tique

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I gave the oral-history interview from 6:39 to 6:45. Box three was on my lap the whole time; I discussed the missing export papers, to the producer's considerable alarm. Grant wanted a sweet founders' reminiscence. I had brought an archive. At my age one should enjoy surprising a producer occasionally.

IF MURDERER

I supplied an earlier oral-history recording and took box three into the gallery. I was sorting its letters before the toast. Someone had put the promised export copy in the wrong folder again. I had already argued with Grant in his salon. I intended to raise the matter publicly when he began his founders' anecdote.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I kept one letter out of the interview folder. It shows I knew how incomplete the accession file was when I signed. Grant had promised the missing papers in writing. I let the museum use his money while waiting for them. The letter will ruin my claim to have been merely optimistic. I was also convenient.

IF MURDERER

I removed the letter admitting my doubts before handing over the interview folder. Grant already had a copy. He thought that settled which of us would be embarrassed tonight. My signature is on the accession; his promise is in the letter. I had never intended to give him the last word on either document.

The sixteen discoveries and five reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The last word

Read only when the host calls you. Top three suspects read first. Use your own role's box; keep every other word private.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I signed an accession I should have refused and concealed my contemporary doubts. The uncut box-three interview keeps me seated through the contamination interval. Grant's missing documents are still missing. My reputation will have to survive the truth at last. His death does not repair the record, and I did not cause it.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I handed over a recording and carried box three into the gallery. The borrowed linen concealed the stolen sample. I wiped Grant's coupe while bringing him the archive copy. He intended to make my life's work his story and my mistake his entertainment. I killed him before he could tell it. The old signature remains mine.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
