Murder Mystery

Dinner Party 2026

Elle Loominate

Textile Artist & Designer

Elle has identified every fabric in the room, including the suspiciously shiny tuxedo. Elle turns weaving, embroidery, salvage fabric, and obsessive handwork into installations that critics call intimate and collectors call surprisingly difficult to ship.

- Has helped Dada DiCapo build several installations.
- Asks Chip Patina how to display fragile textiles without making the supports the main attraction.
- Has worked in Frank Lloyd Wrong's exhibition spaces. Frank's empty walls look like opportunities to Elle.

ACTING TIPS

Creative, grounded, quietly funny, detail-oriented. You notice what people wear and how things are made.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

> I'm Elle Loominate. I make installations with light and fabric. Please do not describe either as something your nephew could do.

Tips for a Successful Dinner

What's at Stake

Compulsive buying of beautiful fabric has consumed another client's advance. Ownership of her pattern feels like ownership of herself.

Best Practices

- Everyone, including you, has something to hide, something at stake. But only one guest tonight is guilty of murder.
- Mingle using the relationships on your introduction page. Feel free to improvise in conversations.
- If a named guest is absent, simply speak to someone else. Not everyone made it to the gala tonight.
- By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don’t share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.
- When asked to read from this packet, please read the appropriate box as written. Feel free to add your own flair to stay in character.
- Don't let anyone else see what's in your packet!

The Game is Afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

1 Dietrich's story belongs on a bookshelf. Tonight something else belongs between its covers.

2 No petals are needed: the vase holds a different kind of arrangement.

3 A clue watches the cars come and go from above the garage door.

Your Answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I asked for early payment. Grant offered it if every future use of my pattern became his. He called that rescuing a commission. I had another client's advance safely assigned to their work; I didn't need him taking an interest in it. Chip told me when to stop touching the weave. Grant wanted to decide when I was finished owning it.

IF MURDERER

I'd spent another client's advance on this fabric. I told Grant when I asked for early payment. He offered to cover the hole if every future use of my pattern became his. I kept buying another length because the next color would make it right. He knew exactly how much I needed the money before he named what he wanted for it.

Your Answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I unfastened the panel when the alcove closed. The lamp was too close. I took it through the private room and rolled it beside Grant's prepared place. No Grant. I left with it. The merchant's bill is for this fabric, yes. The other advance went to its own commission. Frank, don't ask me to put the panel back. You can be disappointed in an empty alcove.

IF MURDERER

I unfastened the top panel when the alcove closed. The lamp was too close. Production kept the separate pattern slides. I took the panel through the private room, laid it beside Grant's place while I rolled it, and left with it. He wasn't there. Frank, I heard you telling me to leave it installed. Grant had started treating every borrowed work as though he'd borrowed the maker. I wasn't leaving him the work and a signed transfer of its pattern.

IF INNOCENT

> Those slides show enlarged stitches. The bottle beside my cloth was the real loan bottle. I carried the panel through his room to roll it up. The merchant has charged the wrong job; I didn't use the other client's advance. Chip, let me finish rolling this myself.

IF MURDERER

> The bottle was projected between the pattern slides. The physical loan stayed in the cupboard. What people remember beside my fabric is the lit image. My amendment kept the pattern rights with me. Chip, I know you want to help. I can't have you carrying this part for me too.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The Last Word

Read only when the host calls you. Top three suspects read first. Use your own role's box; keep every other word private.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I didn't kill Grant. I carried my weave past his glass; the bottle at the preview was real. The merchant's payment line is right. I spent the other client's advance on the gala fabric, and I kept saying I hadn't. Keeping my pattern rights won't repay that debt. Chip, you can help me pack now. I have to go home with the thing I actually made, then call the person who paid for something else.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I killed Grant. There was no projected bottle in the textile slides. The slide contact sheet shows stitches; the preview image shows the actual glass vessel on its support. I took poison there and used his waiting glass later. I invented the projection to make a real source unreachable. Repaying the other advance did not stop Grant exposing what I had done with it. I can still own the pattern. I will never be able to touch that fabric without remembering the person I decided was the price of keeping it.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
