Brie DeVivre

Head Caterer & Hospitality Director

Brie has planned a cheese course more carefully than most people plan a wedding. Brie runs high-end events with the serene expression of a person mentally tracking forty-seven moving parts.

• Goes over catering costs with Monet Bags. Brie keeps the receipts. He knows Monet is addicted to expensive cheddar.

• Barb Dwyer keeps revising the service routes. Brie wants the staff to have one usable plan. Brie knows Barb is lactose intolerant.

• Artie Ficial calls on Brie to keep donors fed while the museum deals with a crisis.

Tips for a Successful Dinner

What's at Stake

Pride in never letting guests see trouble forces him to absorb bills and hostility. He has no graceful outlet for anger.

Best Practices

- Everyone, including you, has something to hide, something at stake. But only one guest tonight is guilty of murder.
- Mingle using the relationships on your introduction page. Feel free to improvise in conversations.
- If a named guest is absent, simply speak to someone else. Not everyone made it to the gala tonight.
- By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don’t share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.
- When asked to read from this packet, please read the appropriate box as written. Feel free to add your own flair to stay in character.
- Don't let anyone else see what's in your packet!

The Game is Afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

1 The life of Bonhoeffer contains more than its author intended.

2 Find a flower's borrowed home and inspect its hollow heart.

3 A shade the color of leaves marks the place to search beside a lamp.

Your Answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

Another cheese course. Ordered after we'd bought the food. Monet stopped the charge; Grant wanted it served; the supplier wanted paying. The private toast was paid for already. You lot see a plate arrive and assume somebody agreed on it. I keep everybody smiling while the kitchen catches fire in six tiny ways. Tonight I wanted someone else to say no for once.

IF MURDERER

Another cheese course. I'd bought the addition without funded authorization. Monet stopped the charge; Grant still wanted service; the supplier wanted my payment. The private toast was paid for. You lot see a plate arrive and assume somebody agreed on it. Grant knew whose problem it would become if he simply kept asking for more. He was very good at asking pleasantly.

IF INNOCENT

> The cheese charge was held. The toast was paid. I took the flavoring to Grant's place and prepared his glass myself. Nobody was supervising my hands; everyone wanted dinner. I left the container with service. He'd told the kitchen my staff were replaceable. I sent them away from him and went in alone. Monet, don't call this a misunderstanding over a ticket. I understood him perfectly.

IF MURDERER

> The manager came back about the cheese charge. I showed the order: extra course disputed, private toast paid. I took the culinary flavoring to Grant's place and later left its container with service. The addition was already on my purchase list without funding. Monet, I know. The supplier was waiting for my payment. Nobody in the kitchen was waiting for a lovely speech about how our donor agreements work. We had dinner to get out.

IF INNOCENT

> I flavored his glass, not the pitcher. The container stayed with service. I washed the measure when I got back because we were still serving dinner. Barb, I prepared his drink alone. Question me. Don't keep my waiters here after their shift. And somebody still owes us for the food.

IF MURDERER

> My container stayed closed. The manager had already flavored the shared pitcher before the toast. I left my container with service. Leave the staff alone. The food bill was disputed; the drink order was booked and paid. We knew which service we were supposed to carry out.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The Last Word

Read only when the host calls you. Top three suspects read first. Use your own role's box; keep every other word private.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I did not poison Grant. I flavored his individual drink under the paid order. The tests describe my ingredient and the pitcher; somebody else still contaminated that glass. The extra course remains my unpaid purchase. Monet, we will argue about it tomorrow. Tonight my staff need their coats and a lift home. They have earned that even if nobody wants the dinner they made.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I killed Grant. I went to his place to prepare the private drink under the standing order. I also used poison from the bottle I'd opened during the closed preview. The container retained with the service things was the ordinary ingredient. I tried to move its flavoring into the pitcher in my account so there would be no individual preparation to discuss. The comparison put the flavoring in his glass, not the pitcher. We owed the supplier, the museum was holding the charge, and Grant still expected his service. My staff kept serving because I told them everything was under control. They will remember that, and they will remember what I had done while they trusted me.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
