

Canonical case / organizer only

All gala guests were invited to the preparation walkthrough. The preparation room was open to them from 6:20 to 6:28; the Donor Salon service table was unattended while the glass was uncovered. No role requires specialist credentials to commit the crime.

Documents establish access and object custody. Scripted testimony supplies personal actions. Laboratory comparison is fictional case evidence, not proof that any real chemical can be uniquely traced to one bottle. No dosage or preparation is specified.

Source sample

The bottle was photographed full with its custody band intact before the 6:20 walkthrough. It was returned to the locked cupboard at 6:28. A concealed split beneath the band was discovered during the investigation. Grant had overruled the conservator's request to keep the object behind the cupboard door.

Poisoned vessel

The new glass was unwrapped and placed on the table at 6:32. The server returned to the kitchen. At 6:44 the server collected it on the tray and kept it through the pour and toast. The shared punch and food were clear.

Discovery resolutions

1. Artie faced forced resignation; unsigned terms explain his grievance, not guilt.
2. The missing export file supports the ownership dispute; an exhibition label cannot supply it.
3. Dada wrote the warning about appropriated work; it is not a poison instruction.
4. The printed program establishes plans, not any guest's location.
5. The mount defect triggered a real safety closure; Chip also concealed a separate date change.
6. Sue softened an opinion but retained this original.
7. Elon was the anonymous buyer; Hugh concealed the route.
8. Vincent used buybacks to hide his early work.
9. Anne organized a petition against the education cuts.
10. Grant ordered the camera disconnection; Barb complied.
11. Anya accepted an incomplete file in 1989.
12. Grant appropriated Dada's performance concept.
13. Grant demanded the original poison contents for The Art of Murder. Eleanor Vale's 1891 case is fictional.
14. The conservator objected. One bottle was accessible during the tour; Evidence 4 repeats the inspection schedule.
15. The real safety closure changed the program, not the private service.
16. The service docket separates the shared punch from Grant's private glass.

Artie Ficial

Innocent Coming Clean

I forged Grant's signed resignation demand and sent it to the chair. I wanted the board forced to discuss his conditions instead of leaving them inside an unsigned gift agreement. The chair's call log and my draft show what we argued over. I did not kill him. I will disclose the forgery and the job I accepted elsewhere. The board can decide which departure it now prefers.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my resignation envelope when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. I was leaving the museum, but I could not bear to let him own it.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Claire O'Scuro

Innocent Coming Clean

I concealed the independent review and changed the display label without approval. The missing permit is real; the registrar kept both versions of the label. I did not poison Grant. The board will receive the review I withheld. If it removes me from the exhibition, the ownership question will still have to be answered.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my label folder when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. I wanted the review published. I killed the man trying to suppress it.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Hugh Bidder

Innocent Coming Clean

The certificate was already false when I received it. Altering my file afterward was my decision. I entered at 6:29, after the bottle had been locked away. I did not kill Grant. I will give the buyer the unaltered correspondence and negotiate the refund without pretending a changed file repairs the sale.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my settlement envelope when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He could expose the false certificate and destroy my business. I chose murder over admitting it.

Why the innocent account excludes murder

Hugh's staff-issued entrance receipt establishes his first arrival after the preparation room closes. The innocent branch explicitly rules out an earlier entry.

Monet Bags

Innocent Coming Clean

I moved restricted money to pay staff and did it without authorization. The bank's instruction and the marked ledger separate that transfer from Grant's marble-wing proposal. I did not poison him. I will account for the money I moved. The wing expenses will not disappear into the wages while I do it.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my ledger when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He threatened to expose my transfer while making me conceal his expenses. I made the account end with him.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Chip Patina

Innocent Coming Clean

I falsified the insurance date. The technician's original photograph records the actual treatment, and the later mounting fault was real. The red strips in my supply sleeve were unused custody-band stock. I did not kill Grant. I will correct the insurance file and accept responsibility for that alteration instead of signing another one.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my treatment file when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He held my altered date over me and wanted another false report. I silenced him instead of correcting the first one.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Dada DiCapo

Innocent Coming Clean

I intended to run the canceled performance. The jacket on the stand was empty, and the rehearsal used no drink. The metallic paper came from our closing effect. I did not poison Grant. I wanted his name taken off my work in front of the donors. I will admit the unauthorized plan and insist that the surviving sketch retain its actual credit.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my working program when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He took my work and credited his foundation. I made the closing reveal a murder.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Vincent Van Faux

Innocent Coming Clean

I bought my own early paintings back and tried to buy this one too. I was ashamed of it. The sale notice and cash withdrawal survive; I can stop pretending those purchases were anonymous collectors. I did not murder Grant. The registrar can hang the student picture beside the new one. I will have to survive the comparison.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my sketch wallet when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He planned to use my old painting to humiliate me. I murdered my patron rather than endure his unveiling.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Sue Venir

Innocent Coming Clean

I softened the opinion and allowed Grant to imply it cleared the collection. The earlier version still names the missing permit. I did not kill him. Both opinions will go to the board, including the language I weakened. Advice becomes less useful when the lawyer helps a client conceal what it actually says.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my legal case when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He used my softened opinion as permission to keep what he could not prove he owned. I ended the argument by killing my client.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Dr. Art E. Fact

Innocent Coming Clean

The inference in my article needs correction. I will publish it. The source still raises the ownership question, and the correspondence records exactly which sentence was mine. I did not poison Grant. An error in my work is not a reason to preserve a separate error in the exhibition.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my citation folder when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He meant to buy my silence with my own citation error. I protected the article by committing a crime far worse than its mistake.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Tess Tament

Innocent Coming Clean

The trustee revolt was mine, including the bluff about having enough votes. My entrance receipt records my first arrival at 6:31, after the bottle was locked away. I did not kill Grant. I will tell the trustees which promises I had actually obtained. Then I will ask them to vote against the amendment without claiming the vote is already won.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my evening bag when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He treated my inheritance and my vote as his possessions. I murdered him before the trustees heard his version.

Why the innocent account excludes murder

Tess entered the museum for the first time at 6:31 after the preparation room was locked at 6:28; her entrance receipt is a staff-issued arrival record, not a photo timestamp. No guest access beforehand.

Barb Dwyer

Innocent Coming Clean

I authorized the camera exception and concealed it from the report. Grant signed the order, but I was responsible for following the security procedure. The work order and active doorway camera survive. I did not poison him. My staff will receive the actual authorization, and I will answer for the exception I failed to file.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my work-order sleeve when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. I obeyed his camera order and used the privacy it created. I murdered the man who intended to blame my staff.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Paige Turner

Innocent Coming Clean

I refused my source's name and took the recorder back without permission. My editor already held the recording and the factual correction. I did not kill Grant. I will publish the correction and retain his offer to withdraw the injunction for a name. Protecting the source does not excuse the sentence I got wrong; correcting it does not require surrendering them.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my reporter's notebook when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He demanded my source's name. I called murder protecting a source. It was murder, and the correction I owed my readers still stands.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Frank Lloyd Wrong

Innocent Coming Clean

I removed an approval tag bearing my own inadequate load figure. Then I required the alcove to stay closed. The rigger kept the new stop-work sheet and the crew photographs. I did not murder Grant. The corrected drawing will identify my earlier error, not quietly replace it. The crew deserves a record it can build from.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my drawing tube when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He wanted my signature on an unsafe installation. I killed him instead of putting my refusal on the record.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Mona Lott

Innocent Coming Clean

I leaked the negotiations and obstructed the unveiling without the partners' consent. Their retained amendment calls the work a loan. I did not poison Grant. I will admit the leak to them and give the owner the full account of tonight's dispute. A dead donor does not settle an ownership claim.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my letter folder when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. I wanted him stopped before the ownership announcement. I chose his death over another failed negotiation.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Elon Mosaic

Innocent Coming Clean

The bidder's company was mine. I concealed that connection and negotiated a board position alongside the purchase. The invoice and my partners' price proposal survive. I did not kill Grant. I will disclose both transactions before asking the museum to consider either proposal. There is no useful version of that disclosure with my company left out.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my proposal folio when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He threatened my appointment and my concealed purchase. I treated a person as an obstacle I could remove.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Anya Tique

Innocent Coming Clean

I accepted the incomplete file in 1989 and concealed my exception again tonight. The archivist retained the original register. I first entered at 6:30, after the bottle was locked away. I did not kill Grant. I will restore the complete accession record, including my own handwriting, and stop treating promised papers as papers received.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my accession file when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. The old accession file could disgrace me. I killed Grant before he could use it in front of the donors.

Why the innocent account excludes murder

Anya first enters at 6:30, after reference access ends; the staffed check-in guest book is an actual entry record rather than a retrospective autograph.

Saul D. Bid

Innocent Coming Clean

I disclosed the client's ceiling and tried to hide the resulting fee through a subsidiary. The original message and sale book establish it. I did not murder Grant. The client will receive both. I may find myself negotiating my own refund, which will be a less enjoyable auction than the one I intended to conduct tonight.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my sale book when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He wanted my fee waived and my client exposed. I made a private commission the excuse for murder.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Elle Loominate

Innocent Coming Clean

I promised the textile without the family consent either institution needed. The dated loan offer survives. I did not poison Grant. I will tell both institutions about the conflicting promises and return the decision to the people entitled to make it. Folding the cloth away tonight did not withdraw the earlier offer.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my pattern folder when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He wanted to keep the textile and expose my second promise. I killed him rather than face the institution I had misled.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Reed DeLabel

Innocent Coming Clean

I copied an attribution without checking and concealed that the source also undermined Art's research. The register and archivist's reply identify both mistakes. I did not kill Grant. I will correct my catalog entry and tell Art what I found. A junior researcher can admit a shortcut without asking everyone else to keep the wrong attribution.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my reference sleeve when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He could take my fellowship and turn my unchecked reference against Art. I chose murder instead of publishing the correction.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Al Baster

Innocent Coming Clean

I changed the support from the approved plan and omitted the fabricator's credit. The drawing and shop photographs establish both. I did not poison Grant. I will correct the construction record, credit the workers and settle their invoices before disputing my own balance. His proposed replica does not erase my original obligations.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough and poisoned Grant's uncovered glass in the salon. The mock toast gave me a reason to lift it. A fragment of the bottle's custody band remained in my work-apron pocket; another was found inside the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison linked the material, and I had admitted wearing the apron at both places. He intended to replace my sculpture and refuse the balance. I killed him over the contract and pretended I was defending the people whose credit I had withheld.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Ella Gance

Innocent Coming Clean

I sold the promised donation and brought a replacement I hoped nobody would unpack too quickly. My first arrival was 6:32, after the bottle was locked away. I did not kill Grant. I will notify the institution expecting the original and offer repayment. The packing list can say what I brought without calling it what I promised.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my evening bag when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He had the correspondence about the promise I could not fulfill. I killed him before the announcement instead of answering for it.

Why the innocent account excludes murder

Ella's staffed entrance record marks her first arrival at 6:32, after the preparation room was locked; the branch excludes an earlier entry.

Drew Conclusions

Innocent Coming Clean

The column was mine, the correction was paid, and the phone edit concealed that payment. The printer kept the editions and invoice. I did not murder Grant. I will put my name and the transaction beside the correction. Readers can decide how funny they find the original after learning what its author sold.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my newsletter folder when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He wanted the satire turned into his tribute. I killed him rather than admit what I had sold him.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Brie DeVivre

Innocent Coming Clean

I concealed the supplier substitution, changed the setup on contradictory instructions and withheld the unpaid course. The kitchen's order and the clear food and punch results survive. I wiped sauce from the glass's base, not poison into it. I will disclose the supplier and give the estate the actual invoice. The disputed course was never served.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my invoice folder when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He demanded more private service while disputing every charge. I poisoned one glass and left the shared food and punch clear.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Cary Crates

Innocent Coming Clean

I concealed the frame crack before the lift fault. The shop's glass delivery and the mechanic's record concern different objects; the repair estimate records the damage I hid. I did not kill Grant. I will report the crack with the actual date I saw it. A careful delivery afterward does not make the earlier omission disappear.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough and poisoned Grant's uncovered glass in the salon. Moving it out of the trolley's path gave me an ordinary reason to handle it. A fragment of the bottle's custody band caught inside my work-glove cuff; another was found inside the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison linked the material, and I had admitted wearing those gloves at both places. He ordered the frame damage concealed and threatened to blame me. I killed him instead of reporting the crack.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Anne E. Dote

Innocent Coming Clean

I used the staff list and claimed the director's permission without asking. The petition signatures are real. I did not poison Grant. I will account for the unauthorized mailing and tell the volunteers which approval I invented. Then I will ask the trustees what happens to the education space now that the gift is disputed.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my petition clipboard when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He was cutting the programs and buying a workshop bearing his name. I killed him before the donors heard his version of generosity.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Faye Stop

Innocent Coming Clean

I retained the print and let Grant believe deleting the file had destroyed every copy. The original print order survives. I did not kill him. I will supply the photograph with its actual date and explain the selective answer I gave. The shipping papers in that image deserve investigation without another deletion.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my print sleeve when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He wanted the retained photograph destroyed. I killed him to preserve evidence of a different crime.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Robin Banks

Innocent Coming Clean

I put the sticker on his jacket and returned after promising to stay out of the presentation. The printer kept the brochure artwork. I did not poison him. I will answer for breaking that promise and give the claimant the files. Grant's death does not turn disputed possession into permanent ownership.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough and poisoned Grant's uncovered glass in the salon. The sticker was my excuse for picking it up. A fragment of the bottle's custody band caught in my brochure; another was found inside the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison linked the material, and my account placed me at both objects. He wanted me removed before announcing permanent ownership. I murdered him in the museum whose history I wanted corrected.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Penny Pincher

Innocent Coming Clean

I burned the copy of his offer and withheld the letter implicating my grandfather. The family solicitor retained its transcript. I did not kill Grant. I will release the letter and stop presenting a family history with the difficult page removed. His offer to buy our silence will accompany it.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my family-letter case when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He offered to buy the family's silence. I killed him rather than reveal what my grandfather's letter admitted.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Justin Tyme

Innocent Coming Clean

I kept telling the wrong parcel story after finding the boundary record. I deleted the public take and concealed the archive offer. I did not murder Grant. I will publish the correction and the offer under my own name. Tulsa has quite enough stories that acquired authority because somebody enjoyed telling them.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough. While the glass was uncovered, I used it to poison Grant's glass during that visit. A piece of the bottle seal caught in my parcel-map folder when I opened it. I carried it to the table without noticing; another fragment landed in the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison exposed that connection. He threatened my access to the archive and kept selling his parcel story. I murdered him instead of letting the deed answer him.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.

Minnie Malist

Innocent Coming Clean

I hid an unauthorized blackout in the naming sequence. The safety override stopped it; the later flickers came from the electrician's test. The unused confetti and revised cue sheet survive. I did not poison Grant. I will deliver the actual job log, including the cue I intended to run, instead of passing the whole interruption off as a safety fault.

Murderer Coming Clean

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough and poisoned Grant's uncovered glass in the salon. Resetting the place for its photograph gave me a reason to handle it. A fragment of the bottle's custody band caught in my cue-sheet folder; another was found inside the glass. The inventory and laboratory comparison linked the material, and my account placed the folder at both locations. The safety override stopped the blackout I had hidden. It did not stop me. He wanted his name restored and threatened my payment. I made a dispute about the program end in murder.

What the innocent evidence explains

The retained record or ordinary material gives an innocent explanation for this character's misconduct. It corroborates that account without establishing an uninterrupted alibi.