

Belle Tament

Junior Curator of Very Important Things

Belle collects shiny rocks, tiny drawings, and objects adults mistakenly call "just packaging." She thinks the museum needs more animals, more glitter, and a painting displayed low enough for her to see.

- Tess Tament is Mom. Belle chooses her jewelry by how much it sparkles.
- Hugh Bidder admired her drawing. Her price is a million dollars and a cookie. He still owes the cookie; Belle knows Mom likes him.
- Chip Patina taught her to look without touching. Belle wants him to repair her teddy because he "fixes old things."

ACTING TIPS

Be curious. Show Mom your drawings, ask Chip about the art, and remind Hugh about your cookie. Join in whenever you feel like it.

COSTUME SUGGESTIONS

A favorite party dress or comfortable fancy outfit, sparkly headband, little purse, and a Junior Curator badge. A small sketchbook is a useful accessory. Belle can coordinate with Tess.
