INTRODUCTIONS

Vincent Van Faux

Celebrated Contemporary Painter

Vincent believes even his shopping lists belong in a documentary. He is truly a genius of the visual arts. Vincent became famous young and has been trying ever since to convince people that this is not the same thing as becoming famous accidentally.

- Went to art school with Dada DiCapo. Dada enjoys reminding Vincent of this in front of collectors.
- Hugh Bidder wants to represent Vincent. Vincent has yet to approve Hugh's percentage.
- Penny Pincher keeps showing Vincent photos of paintings and asking what they are worth. He's not interested.
- Al Baster compares their commissions by weight. Vincent would prefer to discuss the price.

ACTING TIPS

Warm, competitive, mercurial, self-aware enough to joke about his ego but not enough to lose it.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Vincent Van Faux. My new work is here tonight. My early work is also here, despite several very expensive objections.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant owned an embarrassing student painting you have spent years trying to buy back. He planned to display it tonight beside your celebrated recent work as a joke about 'humble beginnings.'

Your other secret

You have secretly used buyers to acquire several of your own early paintings so you could remove them from circulation. The art world would find that both vain and market-manipulative.

Conversations to start

- Find out whether Ella Gance knows you were behind the anonymous buybacks.
- Persuade Claire O'Scuro that the student painting should not be displayed.

One attending guest committed the murder alone. Follow your printed account during the hearings. If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 1 Find the biography of the man who chose conscience over obedience. Its pages have company.
- 2 Look inside the vessel that usually gives cut flowers a place to stand.
- 3 Find the green light, then examine the space nearby.

ACT I: MOTIVE

Vincent Van Faux

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The anonymous buybacks were mine. I paid to remove my student paintings from circulation. Grant owned the worst one and wanted it beside my recent work as a joke. A patron buying art is charming. A patron buying the right to humiliate its painter is a different transaction.

IF MURDERER

I arranged the buybacks because early work should sometimes remain early work. Grant refused to sell his student painting back. He wanted the gala to laugh at it. He had never painted anything, yet tonight he intended to become the author of my reputation.

ACT II: OPPORTUNITY

Vincent Van Faux

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I offered Grant a replacement sketch at the service table. The steward was guarding his glass in blue wrapping. I noticed how the white museum logo lined up across the closed seam, then spent the rest of the visit looking at Grant instead of the sketch he refused to examine. When I left, the seam was still closed. I made no second approach before the toast.

IF MURDERER

I brought a replacement sketch to Grant at the private service station. The glass stood on blue material and the steward was away. Grant refused my buyback offer before looking at the sketch. He preferred an early painting I hated. It is difficult to negotiate artistic growth with someone buying an embarrassing souvenir.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I took the rejected sketch away. The package stayed with the steward. Grant wanted to exhibit the student painting I hated, and my buyback offer was real. I had painted over my own name on the replacement sketch. That made the negotiation considerably less dignified.

IF MURDERER

The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat; the white museum logo was stitched into it. The glass was unwrapped. I took the rejected sketch away. I wanted the student painting removed because it was mine and I hated it. That is not an especially flattering art-market strategy.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The last word

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I offered to buy my early work back and concealed earlier buybacks because I was ashamed of it. I will let the records show those purchases. My sole service-station visit involved a glass still sealed in its blue plastic wrapping. The steward kept it guarded when I took my sketch away. My vanity was on display. My hands never had access to the glass interior.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I took cyanide during the preparation tour and carried it in my rag. While the glass was uncovered I spread the replacement sketch beside Grant's glass and wiped the solution inside the glass. The staff sealed it and later poured the clean drink. I wanted control of my own work so badly that I took control of his last act. I killed him.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
