INTRODUCTIONS

Paige Turner

Investigative Arts Journalist

Paige asks innocent questions with a recorder visibly running. Her journalistic integrity is unmatched. Paige covers the art world for the Times of Tulsa the way other reporters cover city hall: money, power, access, and who benefits when everyone agrees to keep silent.

- Keeps asking Barb Dwyer for access to museum records. Barb keeps asking what the story is about.
- Sue Venir has threatened to quote Paige's own articles back to her in court.
- Calls Reed DeLabel to check dates and catalog references. Reed is delighted when a correction makes it into print.

ACTING TIPS

Curious, direct, quick, socially fearless. Ask questions people wish you would save for email.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Paige Turner. I am covering the gala. I just want to say in advance that absolutely nothing is off the record tonight.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

You were preparing a major investigation into Grant's collection and labor empire. He discovered enough to threaten an injunction and promised to reveal the identity of one of your confidential museum sources if you published.

Your other secret

You obtained internal documents through a source inside the Meridian. Protecting that source matters more to you than tonight's scoop.

Conversations to start

- Find out whether Grant found the full provenance spreadsheet or only excerpts.
- Keep your source's identity protected.

One attending guest committed the murder alone. Follow your printed account during the hearings. If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 1 The house has its own cinema. Inspect the side the audience never sees.
- 2 A decorative vessel has traded its bouquet for evidence.
- 3 A green lamp cannot testify, but something near it can.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I went into the preparation room through the east visitor entrance during the walkthrough. The reference labels were useful background for my reporting. Grant threatened an injunction and my source. A rich man threatening a newspaper is weather. Threatening the person who trusted me is different. I concealed that source and kept the documents. You can ask me about my reporting. You cannot have their name as a party favor.

IF MURDERER

I went into the preparation room through the east visitor entrance during the walkthrough. The reference labels were useful background for my reporting. Grant threatened my source and offered me a softer story. I concealed the source. I also kept his offer, because nothing improves a denial like having it in writing. He believed the injunction would silence us before his speech. He had mistaken a deadline for a surrender date.

Paige Turner

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I delivered one revised proof to Grant at the service station before the toast. A red mark crossed the fold. Counsel had insisted on a correction; Grant insisted on my source's name. The proof contained the correction. I left him reading it and returned to my notes. There was no other trip to that station.

IF MURDERER

I delivered the working carbon of my revised proof to the private service station. A red mark crossed its fold. Counsel had insisted on correcting a paragraph. Grant wanted my source's name in exchange for dropping his injunction threat. The proof did not contain it. That omission was quite intentional.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The proof I handed him was the original. I watched the clerk press RECEIVED into it, ran my thumb over the raised letters, and then carried it to Grant. My source's name stayed out. Grant was free to object to the paragraph without acquiring the person behind it.

IF MURDERER

That thick red line deletes the description that could identify my source. I handed Grant a working carbon. The clerk embossed the retained original afterward. The deletion was deliberate, and I will defend it. Grant could challenge the reporting without buying the person who helped me do it.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I protected the source and concealed the proof's weak paragraph until counsel forced the correction. Both decisions deserve an explanation. I waited for the original's RECEIVED seal before my only service visit. Its first use followed the sealed glass cover. My account involved an injunction and an awkward correction, not access to Grant's uncovered glass.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I acquired cyanide during the walkthrough and hid it in the cloth around my recorder. While the glass was uncovered I brought Grant the working carbon of my revised proof. He demanded my source's name and asked me to stop recording. I turned the recorder off and applied the solution inside his glass beside the paper. Staff sealed the glass cover and later poured from a clean pitcher. I called it protecting a source. I murdered him, and no revision makes that anything else.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
