INTRODUCTIONS

Saul D. Bid

Chairman of Gavel & Rowe Auction House

Saul cannot ask someone to pass the salt without opening bidding. Saul has sold paintings, antiques, estates, scandals, and at least one chair that required its own insurance rider.

- Longtime professional rival of Hugh Bidder.

ACTING TIPS

Old-school charm, status-aware, patient, competitive. Speak as if the room has already agreed you belong in it.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Saul D. Bid. Going once, going twice—no, I am only asking someone to pass the bread.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant threatened to expose a private sale you arranged outside your auction house's normal process unless you waived a substantial fee.

Your other secret

You did route the sale through a discreet subsidiary to satisfy a client who insisted on anonymity.

Conversations to start

- Compare notes with Hugh Bidder about Grant's demands on auction houses.
- Ask Elon Mosaic what he expects from tonight's unveiling. Keep your private sale to yourself for now.

One attending guest committed the murder alone. Follow your printed account during the hearings. If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 1 A screen steals every eye. The evidence has slipped out of view behind it.
- 2 The award has already been won. Its underside offers another reward.
- 3 The clue is keeping company with the lamp in green.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I routed the sale through a subsidiary. The client demanded discretion, and I supplied a discreet invoice with an indiscreet fee. Grant threatened to expose the arrangement unless I waived that fee. He admired confidentiality until someone charged him for it.

IF MURDERER

The subsidiary sale was mine. Grant wanted the fee waived and the arrangement buried. Otherwise he would announce it tonight as my personal scandal. I have auctioned many ugly objects. His proposal had particularly poor proportions.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I presented the subsidiary fee statement beside the steward and Grant's wrapped glass. I examined the museum logo spanning the closed package seam while Grant examined my fee. We both like to know whether something has been tampered with. The museum logo was unbroken when I departed. That was my sole service-table meeting before he drank.

IF MURDERER

I presented the subsidiary fee statement at the private service station. Grant read it beside the glass, with blue material below it and no steward beside us. He knew the fee and demanded the client's identity too. I offered to discuss the fee. He preferred to discuss my reputation. An auction without numbers is generally unpleasant.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The steward kept the package, and I kept the unsigned fee statement. The subsidiary concealed a client's name, not a different fee. Grant wanted to purchase discretion and then deduct its price because he disliked the answer.

IF MURDERER

The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat. Its museum logo was embroidery, and the glass was open. The subsidiary concealed a client's name, not a different fee. Grant expected discretion to become free once he threatened its seller.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The last word

Read only when the host calls you. Top three suspects read first. Use your own role's box; keep every other word private.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

The subsidiary concealed the client's identity, and I should have disclosed the conflict. Grant knew the actual fee. My sole service visit ended while the glass remained in intact sealed blue wrapping under the steward's watch. I negotiated over a package, not an accessible glass. Discretion is costly enough without calling it murder.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I took cyanide during the tour after the count and hid it in the presentation cloth. While the glass was uncovered I laid the statement beside Grant's glass and coated its interior. The glass cover sealed my work until staff poured. He intended to auction my reputation for the price of a waived fee. I killed him, and there is no respectable commission on that transaction.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
