YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant knew you quietly sold a work you had publicly promised to donate to another institution and planned to expose the contradiction.

Your other secret

You sold it to cover a failed business investment and hoped to replace it before anyone noticed.

Conversations to start

- Ask Vincent Van Faux what the museum expects a collector to donate.
- Compare gala expectations with Elon Mosaic. Keep your withdrawn donation private for now.

One attending guest committed the murder alone. Follow your printed account during the hearings. If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 3 Find the household's frozen collection. One exhibit is made of paper.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I sold the work I had promised to donate. A failed investment made the promise unaffordable, and I hoped to replace it before anyone noticed. Grant intended to announce the discrepancy at dinner. He appreciated generosity most when it supplied a weapon against another donor. The entrance attendant admitted me for the first time at 6:32.

IF MURDERER

I sold the promised donation to cover a failed investment. Grant offered silence if I publicly endorsed his naming agreement. Otherwise he would explain my finances to the entire room. He could have asked for support. He preferred having something to hold over the supporter. The entrance attendant admitted me for the first time at 6:16.

IF INNOCENT

The attendant issued it when I came from outside, and I hadn't entered earlier. I gave Grant a loan letter wrapped in silk. The replacement would hide the fact that I had sold something promised as a donation. I folded the silk while he read. He wanted a public announcement of my failure. I wanted a quiet replacement accepted. Neither request was charitable.

IF INNOCENT

The entrance record is the first admission I described. I folded the silk wrapping while he read. The replacement would conceal my failed promise. It was a financial compromise I should have explained to the institution expecting the original.

The last word

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I sold the donation and concealed the loss. I will tell the institution expecting it and offer repayment. Tonight I first entered at 6:32, after the cyanide cupboard was locked. My later silk wrapping and visit to the glass concerned the replacement offer. I was trying to repair a promise, however badly.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I took cyanide during the walkthrough and carried it in the silk wrapping. While the glass was uncovered I placed my replacement offer beside Grant's glass and applied the solution inside. The glass cover sealed it until service. I traded a financial embarrassment for a murder, then let the room believe the embarrassment explained everything I had done.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
