INTRODUCTIONS

Drew Conclusions

Art Critic & Cultural Podcaster

Drew calls everything derivative, especially things he likes. Drew can make a museum director nervous with a headline and an artist furious with a compliment.

- Friendly rival of Paige Turner.
- Has reviewed Vincent Van Faux, Dada DiCapo, Al Baster, and Elle Loominate.
- Elon Mosaic remembers an especially brutal line about his collection.

ACTING TIPS

Dry, perceptive, skeptical, socially nimble. Deliver observations as if they occurred to you three minutes before everyone else.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Drew Conclusions. I review art professionally. My expression is not a verdict, but I recommend remaining concerned.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant discovered that you write an anonymous satirical newsletter skewering museum patrons and planned to unmask you during his speech.

Your other secret

Several jokes in the newsletter came from private conversations, and you regret at least one of them.

Conversations to start

- Ask Paige Turner what makes a story worth publishing when a donor objects.
- Ask Vincent Van Faux whether he reads the anonymous museum newsletter. Do not admit you write it.

One attending guest committed the murder alone. Follow your printed account during the hearings. If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

ACT I: MOTIVE

Drew Conclusions

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The anonymous newsletter is mine. Some jokes came from private conversations, and one hurt somebody who didn't deserve it. Grant planned to expose the author tonight. I was prepared to admit the newsletter. I was considerably less prepared to let him introduce it as a tribute to himself.

IF MURDERER

I wrote the newsletter and used private conversations I should have protected. Grant would unmask me at the gala and have my professional invitations withdrawn. He demanded favorable coverage in exchange. A man unable to recognize satire had finally discovered its author and wished to become its editor.

ACT II: OPPORTUNITY

Drew Conclusions

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you. After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I brought the revised newsletter page to Grant at the service station. The steward watched him read. There was a white museum logo printed across the seam of the blue package containing his glass. I considered drawing a mustache on it. I left it joined exactly as I found it and handed over my page. I did not visit that station again before the toast.

IF MURDERER

I brought the revised newsletter page to the private service station. Grant read beside the glass on blue material while the steward was away. I offered to delete the cruel joke. Grant wanted his biography added. It was the first negotiation in which silence seemed like the ambitious option.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The anonymous joke was mine. The correction in Grant's handwriting is a paragraph about his philanthropy, followed by a request for a larger portrait. The steward took the page. I took my pencil. Neither of us acquired the other's editorial judgment.

IF MURDERER

The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat, its museum logo stitched. The glass stood open on it. I wrote the anonymous joke. Grant's correction would have turned it into an advertisement, with a remarkably defensive subject.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

The anonymous newsletter was mine, including the passage I now regret. I intended to correct it without writing Grant an advertisement. My sole approach to his service station ended with the glass still in intact blue plastic wrapping under the steward's watch. I supplied a nasty sentence. I did not have access to the glass's inside.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I took cyanide during the preparation walkthrough and hid it in the cloth wrapped around my pencils. While the glass was uncovered I brought Grant the revised newsletter page and coated the inside of his glass while he read. The staff sealed the glass cover and later poured a clean drink into the glass I had poisoned. He wanted me to turn a cruel joke into his advertisement. I answered with murder. That was my decision, and the joke excuses none of it.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
