INTRODUCTIONS

Robin Banks

Cultural Restitution Activist & Nonprofit Organizer

Robin has brought a petition, spare pens and absolutely no interest in donor etiquette. Robin campaigns for museums and collectors to return contested cultural objects, publish complete provenance, and stop treating possession as the end of the conversation.

- Frequently debates Dr. Art E. Fact and Mona Lott on strategy.
- Barb Dwyer has removed Robin from a museum event before; both remember it.
- Anne E. Dote quietly agrees with more of Robin's critique than museum leadership suspects.

ACTING TIPS

Focused, bold, principled, socially savvy. Challenge people without turning every conversation into a speech.

YOUR INTRODUCTION / READ THE BOX ALOUD

I'm Robin Banks. I campaign for restitution. A disputed object does not become less disputed when somebody puts flowers beside it.

Continue to your private briefing on page 3. Keep the packet facing you.

Behind the portrait

Your grievance with Grant

Grant had you removed from a previous museum event and threatened legal action if you disrupted tonight's unveiling.

Your other secret

You planted small 'PROVENANCE IS A VERB' stickers in several gallery brochures for a peaceful protest.

Conversations to start

- Ask Mona Lott what the museum owes people represented in its collection.
- Ask Barb Dwyer what protest would get you removed from tonight's event.

One attending guest committed the murder alone. Follow your printed account during the hearings. If a named guest is absent, speak to someone else.

By now, you should have drawn a secret animal. Memorize it and don't share it with anyone. This animal is YOUR key to knowing whether you are the murderer or innocent tonight. This will tell you which sections of this packet you can read out loud.

The game is afoot

The Meridian Museum has its share of secrets, rumors, and lost paperwork. Sixteen numbered envelopes are hidden around the museum. Their contents may significantly help you tonight. These 3 hints lead to 3 different hiding places. If you find an envelope, bring it to your seat at the table. The guest with the most envelopes will win a special prize. You may investigate together.

- 1 A trophy is more than decoration tonight. Check below its foot.
- 2 Where red drapes close the scene, evidence waits out of sight.
- 3 A secret has been put on ice, quite literally.

Wait for the host to announce the next round.

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

The stickers were mine. PROVENANCE IS A VERB fits nicely in a brochure that treats ownership as a permanent noun. Grant had me removed from an earlier event and threatened legal action tonight. I came to make the collection's history visible. He wanted me visible only on a security notice.

IF MURDERER

I planted the stickers because another polite letter had accomplished nothing. Grant threatened to have me removed again before the unveiling. He would announce permanent ownership while the people asking questions waited outside. A gala was becoming another ceremony of possession.

Robin Banks

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I asked Grant to read the provenance brochure at his service station. The steward had the glass inside a blue package whose printed museum logo crossed the shut seam. Grant called my stickers offensive. I gave the steward the brochure and left; the museum logo was still joined. That conversation was my only visit to the station before the toast.

IF MURDERER

I asked Grant to read my provenance brochure at the private service station. The glass stood on blue material while the steward was away. Grant called the protest stickers offensive. I thought the disputed ownership stories were more offensive. We were comparing different forms of bad taste.

Robin Banks

Your answer

Read only the bordered words when asked. Keep your packet facing you.
After answering, ask an unheard guest their question from the previous page.

IF INNOCENT

I kept the stickers. The brochure stayed with the steward, who had watched the entire exchange. I had planned a peaceful protest, and I had already put stickers in gallery brochures. Grant would have found the same demand for provenance in several places that night.

IF MURDERER

The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat; its museum logo was stitched. The glass above it was open. I left the brochure and took my stickers away. They asked people to think about provenance. Grant preferred an easier question, such as the size of his plaque.

The shared discoveries and reports remain at the Evidence Table.

The last word

IF INNOCENT / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

The protest stickers were mine. I distributed them without permission and will defend their questions. My sole approach to the private service station ended with the glass still in intact blue plastic wrapping under the steward's watch. My criticism reached Grant. The sealed interior did not become accessible to me.

IF MURDERER / READ ALOUD WHEN CALLED

I entered early, took cyanide during the walkthrough, and hid it in my protective cloth. While the glass was uncovered I brought Grant the brochure and coated his glass. I returned to the room while staff sealed and poured. I used a restitution campaign to justify murder to myself. Nobody represented by that collection authorized what I did.

Every selected suspect gets their final word.
