

The evening: what arrives, and when

Discoveries add context and suspicion. Official exhibits establish the crime facts before voting.

|                     |                                                                                    |                                                                                                                            |
|---------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| ARRIVAL             | Introduce yourselves. Memorize and return your animal slip.                        | A separate matching bowl selects only an attending guest. The branch stays fixed all evening.                              |
| HUNT FOR CLUES      | Find, read and display all sixteen envelopes. The host supplies missed finds.      | 13: acquisition receipt. 14: conservator objection. 16: private toast schedule. Other finds expose scandals.               |
| ACT I: MOTIVE       | Release Evidence 1 (gift terms) and 2 (empty acquired bottle). Everyone answers.   | The takeover gives many guests motives. The bottle has been opened; this does not identify who opened it.                  |
| ACT II: OPPORTUNITY | Release Evidence 3: the caterer’s photos and signed handling record.               | The glass is wrapped until 6:40, unattended until 6:44, then sealed and watched. Earlier visits do not prove poisoning.    |
| ACT III: METHOD     | Release Evidence 4 (bottle access and room plan) and 5 (lab and material records). | Bottle accessible 6:20–6:28. West return slot does not reach it. Received embossing begins 6:45. Punch and food are clear. |
| ACCUSATIONS         | Discuss, submit ballots, tally and lock votes.                                     | All necessary facts are available now. Nobody needs a confession to solve the case.                                        |
| COMING CLEAN        | Hear the top three suspects. If none confesses, call the selected animal.          | Endings connect existing facts and resolve other scandals; they introduce no essential new evidence.                       |

How evidence turns an account into a deduction

Both actions are necessary. An innocent account rules out at least one; a murderer account leaves both possible.

TAKE THE POISON
Preparation shelf / 6:20–6:28 / Evidence 2 + 4

AND

REACH INSIDE THE GLASS
Donor Salon / 6:40–6:44 / Evidence 3 + 5

| ACCOUNT TYPE        | IF INNOCENT + EVIDENCE                                                                     | IF MURDERER + EVIDENCE                                                      |
|---------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Continuous activity | A live, fixed or hands-occupied task covers an entire necessary window.                    | The murderer’s task finishes before, or begins after, that window.          |
| First admission     | The first entrance is after 6:28, when the bottle is already locked away.                  | The murderer enters earlier and can reach the shelf during the tour.        |
| Physical route      | A west-side paperwork exchange cannot reach the bottle through the wall.                   | The murderer enters the east visitor room, where the shelf is accessible.   |
| Guarded glass       | The only visit to the table ends while the blue plastic wrapping is intact.                | The murderer sees an uncovered glass on a blue cloth placemat.              |
| Document sequence   | An original bears the raised RECEIVED mark first used at 6:45; the sole delivery is later. | The murderer delivers a red-pencil working copy before the cover is sealed. |

Reading rule: printed innocent facts are true. Lack of an exclusion alone is not proof of guilt in real life; this fictional case specifies one killer, no accomplice and no second poison source. Motives and unrelated wrongdoing create suspicion, not a murder verdict.

Artie Ficial / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | Grant wanted my resignation attached to his donation, like a complimentary tote bag. I had accepted a job at a rival museum. There, I've said it. I kept smiling because thirty years of museum management teaches you to applaud while someone repossesses your chair. I began revising the acknowledgments with the board chair at 6:36.                                                                             | Grant wanted my resignation attached to his donation, like a complimentary tote bag. I had accepted a job at the rival museum, but leaving meant handing him this institution. I told him he could purchase a wing. He could not purchase my surrender. I began revising the acknowledgments with the board chair at 6:29.                                                                                             |
| OPPORTUNITY | The speakerphone is fixed to the boardroom wall. She read each donor name, I answered, and we kept revising together until her final correction. The acknowledgments were my last duty before Grant's announcement. His name appeared eleven times. I reduced that to nine, which he considered an attack on the donation. The speech cards are in my handwriting, including the crossed-out title he awarded himself. | The speakerphone is fixed to the boardroom wall. She read each donor name, I answered, and we kept revising together until her final correction. The acknowledgments were my last duty before Grant's announcement. His name appeared eleven times. I reduced that to nine, which he considered an attack on the donation. The speech cards are in my handwriting, including the crossed-out title he awarded himself. |
| METHOD      | The chair's final correction came at 6:46. The pocket square and speech cards went with me to Grant afterward. I could spell his name. What I couldn't do was persuade him that the other names mattered.                                                                                                                                                                                                              | The chair's final correction came at 6:38. The pocket square and speech cards went with me to Grant afterward. I could spell his name. What I couldn't do was persuade him that the other names mattered.                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

Artie's live exchange on a fixed boardroom speakerphone spans the full uncovered-glass period; the caller's requested edits tie the conversation to live participation, not a recording. The fixed line is in another room. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: rival museum. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Claire O’Scuro / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I entered the preparation room through the east visitor door during the walkthrough to check the supplier names on the reference labels. I commissioned an independent review and concealed it from the board. Grant wanted the Star Bowl exhibited with a gap in its history large enough to park his limousine. He could remove me from the show. He couldn't make the missing export permit materialize by pointing at his checkbook. | I entered the preparation room through the east visitor door during the walkthrough to check the supplier names on the reference labels. The independent review would ruin Grant's announcement. I concealed it because he had threatened to remove me and replace the label with his preferred history. A curator chooses what a museum says. He wanted me to be the person who stood beside a lie and smiled. |
| OPPORTUNITY | I delivered the revised provenance folder to the private service station. The steward held the wrapped glass while Grant criticized my label. Across the package, the printed museum logo joined neatly over the closed seam. It was still joined when the steward took my folder and I left. That was the whole of my visit to Grant's service table before the toast.                                                                  | I delivered the revised provenance folder to the private service station. The steward had stepped away. Blue material lay beside Grant's glass while I spread out the folder. Grant thought the longer ownership history spoiled the design. I offered to shorten his biography instead. A patron's title is often the least well-supported claim on a label.                                                   |
| METHOD      | I remember that museum logo because Grant said my ownership history should fit beneath one just as neatly. The missing export permit remained missing. I had brought a folder with a longer label; I left with instructions to make the facts smaller.                                                                                                                                                                                   | The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat, with a stitched museum logo. The glass stood on it without wrapping. The missing export permit remained missing. A shorter label would not have made it exist.                                                                                                                                                                                               |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The complete sole service approach ends while the same glass remains inside intact sealed blue wrapping under staff watch. Its interior is inaccessible; later reacquisition is excluded by the spoken complete account. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: independent review. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Hugh Bidder / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | The certificate was forged before it reached me. I then altered my file to hide how badly I had been fooled. Grant intended to call that a forgery of my own unless I refunded millions. My professional judgment was poor. His price for keeping quiet was excellent, for him. I first entered at 6:29, delayed by a dispute over a reserve price.                    | I altered my file after discovering the certificate was false. Grant wanted millions back and a public admission that I had created the forgery. He knew that wasn't true. He preferred an expensive villain to a complicated transaction, especially when he could make the villain pay twice. I first entered at 6:17, delayed by a dispute over a reserve price.    |
| OPPORTUNITY | The gate attendant issued the receipt when admitting me from outside. I had not been inside earlier. I took Grant a settlement offer. He asked where the refund was. I asked whether he had read the offer. We each repeated our question. My presentation case contained the false certificate and my altered file; I wasn't about to leave either on a public table. | The gate attendant issued the receipt when admitting me from outside. I had not been inside earlier. I took Grant a settlement offer. He asked where the refund was. I asked whether he had read the offer. We each repeated our question. My presentation case contained the false certificate and my altered file; I wasn't about to leave either on a public table. |
| METHOD      | My entrance receipt records that first admission, not a second visit. The certificate in the sale file was false, and my alteration concealed that failure rather than curing it.                                                                                                                                                                                      | My entrance receipt documents that first admission, not a second visit. The certificate in the sale file was false, and my alteration concealed that failure rather than curing it.                                                                                                                                                                                    |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

Hugh's staff-issued entrance receipt establishes his first arrival after the preparation room closes. The innocent branch explicitly rules out an earlier entry. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: altered. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Monet Bags / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | During the walkthrough I inspected the preparation cupboard through the east visitor entrance. I wanted to see what the conservation budget had bought. The transfer was unauthorized. I moved restricted money to keep payroll from bouncing and intended to reverse it after the donation. Grant wanted his naming-wing expenses hidden there too. The difference is several salaries versus a marble likeness of a man who already owned mirrors. | During the walkthrough I inspected the preparation cupboard through the east visitor entrance. I wanted to see what the conservation budget had bought. My unauthorized transfer kept payroll alive. Grant discovered it and demanded that I conceal his expenses in the same accounts. If I refused, he would blame the whole mess on me. Apparently the museum's finance department existed to provide him with a culprit and a calculator. |
| OPPORTUNITY | I took the disputed expense schedule to Grant. His steward stood beside him holding the blue-wrapped glass. Grant circled my refusal so hard his pen tore the schedule. The museum logo ran across the package seam without a break; it stayed that way until I left. I went once to that service station before the toast, and that was the visit.                                                                                                  | I took the disputed expense schedule to the private service station. Grant circled my refusal beside the glass while the steward was away. Blue material was under the glass. He wanted his marble-wing expenses added to the same accounts I had abused for payroll. Two wrongs apparently qualify for a donor plaque.                                                                                                                       |
| METHOD      | Grant's circles are on the schedule. The torn paper is mine; the blue package remained with the steward. My unauthorized transfer covered salaries. His proposed addition covered a marble likeness of himself. He wanted both charged to the same account.                                                                                                                                                                                          | The blue material was a reusable cloth placemat, not blue plastic wrapping. Its museum logo was stitched. The glass above it was open. My unauthorized transfer covered salaries. Grant's proposed addition covered a likeness of himself.                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The complete sole service approach ends while the same glass remains inside intact sealed blue wrapping under staff watch. Its interior is inaccessible; later reacquisition is excluded by the spoken complete account. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: unauthorized. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Chip Patina / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I changed the date on a treatment record. There was an insurance deadline, an intact object, and a donor who thought paperwork was something conservators should eat. Grant wanted a much worse alteration: a report calling recent repairs ancient. I refused to turn a condition report into fiction. I started the panel treatment at 6:16.                                                                                      | I changed the date on a treatment record to spare us an insurance dispute. Grant kept that mistake in his pocket and pulled it out whenever he wanted another favor. Tonight he wanted modern alterations erased from a report. He called it restoration. I called it blackmail. I started the panel treatment at 6:10.                                                                                                             |
| OPPORTUNITY | Both my arms stayed in the glove ports throughout the treatment. The assistant handled the tools outside; opening the seal would have stopped the treatment. The panel was flaking under its new varnish. Grant wanted it described as untouched. I had already falsified the treatment date to meet his deadline, so my objection was arriving a little late. My assistant saw the actual surface before any new label went on it. | Both my arms stayed in the glove ports throughout the treatment. The assistant handled the tools outside; opening the seal would have stopped the treatment. The panel was flaking under its new varnish. Grant wanted it described as untouched. I had already falsified the treatment date to meet his deadline, so my objection was arriving a little late. My assistant saw the actual surface before any new label went on it. |
| METHOD      | The assistant released the treatment-box pressure seal at 6:30. The linen I later carried to the Salon belonged to the tray work. Grant wanted recent alterations called ancient. The surface evidence would not cooperate.                                                                                                                                                                                                         | The assistant released the treatment-box pressure seal at 6:18. The linen I later carried to the Salon belonged to the tray work. Grant wanted recent alterations called ancient. The surface evidence would not cooperate.                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

Both hands remained in sealed treatment-box glove ports during the entire preparation access period; an assistant outside passed tools and checked the pressure seal. The poison bottle was elsewhere. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: changed the date. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Dada DiCapo / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I joined the preparation walkthrough through the east door. The reference shelves had more room than my performance space, which I pointed out to the steward. Yes, I wrote the warning. Returning what was taken meant my performance concept, which Grant planned to unveil with himself credited as visionary patron. It was a provocation. He turned my work into an advertisement and then complained that the artist had supplied an uncomfortable caption. My live pedestal performance started at 6:34. | I joined the preparation walkthrough through the east door. The reference shelves had more room than my performance space, which I pointed out to the steward. I wrote the warning and meant Grant to feel threatened. He had taken my unreleased performance, stripped out the difficult parts, and awarded himself the credit. He called his version accessible. Theft is quite accessible when somebody else pays for the stage. My live pedestal performance started at 6:29. |
| OPPORTUNITY | I stayed on the fixed pedestal in the sculpture gallery, wearing the red shoes and answering each new prompt throughout the performance. The Salon was in another room. The pedestal was part of my performance, not a display of available entertainment. Grant's program omitted my credit. I marked up a copy and delivered it to his secretary afterward. Someone had crossed out my correction. Apparently even my handwriting required a donor.                                                           | I stayed on the fixed pedestal in the sculpture gallery, wearing the red shoes and answering each new prompt throughout the performance. The Salon was in another room. The pedestal was part of my performance, not a display of available entertainment. Grant's program omitted my credit. I marked up a copy and delivered it to his secretary afterward. Someone had crossed out my correction. Apparently even my handwriting required a donor.                             |
| METHOD      | The stage manager called the final live prompt at 6:46. The cue track was an accompaniment, not the performer. Returning what was taken still meant returning my work.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | The stage manager called the final live prompt at 6:38. The cue track was an accompaniment, not the performer. Returning what was taken still meant returning my work.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

Dada performs continuously on a fixed pedestal across the full uncovered-glass period, with a stage manager answering spoken prompts; it is a live performance rather than a video loop. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: warning. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Vincent Van Faux / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | The anonymous buybacks were mine. I paid to remove my student paintings from circulation. Grant owned the worst one and wanted it beside my recent work as a joke. A patron buying art is charming. A patron buying the right to humiliate its painter is a different transaction.                                                                                      | I arranged the buybacks because early work should sometimes remain early work. Grant refused to sell his student painting back. He wanted the gala to laugh at it. He had never painted anything, yet tonight he intended to become the author of my reputation.                                                                   |
| OPPORTUNITY | I offered Grant a replacement sketch at the service table. The steward was guarding his glass in blue wrapping. I noticed how the white museum logo lined up across the closed seam, then spent the rest of the visit looking at Grant instead of the sketch he refused to examine. When I left, the seam was still closed. I made no second approach before the toast. | I brought a replacement sketch to Grant at the private service station. The glass stood on blue material and the steward was away. Grant refused my buyback offer before looking at the sketch. He preferred an early painting I hated. It is difficult to negotiate artistic growth with someone buying an embarrassing souvenir. |
| METHOD      | I took the rejected sketch away. The package stayed with the steward. Grant wanted to exhibit the student painting I hated, and my buyback offer was real. I had painted over my own name on the replacement sketch. That made the negotiation considerably less dignified.                                                                                             | The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat; the white museum logo was stitched into it. The glass was unwrapped. I took the rejected sketch away. I wanted the student painting removed because it was mine and I hated it. That is not an especially flattering art-market strategy.                                       |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The complete sole service approach ends while the same glass remains inside intact sealed blue wrapping under staff watch. Its interior is inaccessible; later reacquisition is excluded by the spoken complete account. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: buybacks. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Sue Venir / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|-------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I issued a softer opinion after Grant rejected the original. Both versions survive. He wanted my name on his announcement and none of my qualifications in his speech. I am accustomed to clients ignoring advice. It is particularly irritating when they also demand that I sign the consequences.                                                    | The softer opinion bears my signature. Grant wanted to use it as permission for a permanent acquisition. My original described serious risk. He threatened to disclose both versions and let the profession decide which one I actually believed. He had purchased advice and expected immunity.                                                                             |
| OPPORTUNITY | Our clerk sent the annex to conservation. I spent the whole exchange in the corridor, arguing through the west counter about whose initials belonged on the correction. The assistant fetched the folder and slid it back to me. That was all my business with preparation tonight. Grant still wanted the original legal opinion withdrawn. I kept it. | Our clerk sent the two opinions to conservation because the annex concerned the bowl's condition. I entered through the east visitor door and collected the corrected folder inside. Grant still wanted the original legal opinion withdrawn. I kept it. His secretary found an unsigned signature page on her desk afterward. Apparently silence requires legal advice too. |
| METHOD      | The folder has WEST RETURN written under my initials. I never crossed the barrier; the assistant did the fetching. Both opinions survived. Advice does not disappear simply because a client dislikes its first version.                                                                                                                                | The routing line says EAST VISITOR. I collected the folder from the shelves inside. Both opinions survived. Advice does not disappear simply because a client dislikes its first version.                                                                                                                                                                                    |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

The complete single preparation contact stays outside the fixed west return barrier; only east visitor access reaches the sole source. No revisit or transfer is left unaccounted for. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: softer opinion. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Dr. Art E. Fact / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I overstated one inference in my published article. Grant knew it and threatened to use that error against research into his collection. The error deserves a correction. It does not transform every questionable sale in his papers into a respectable one. Scholarship is not a donor loyalty program.                                                 | I overstated one sentence in my article. Grant intended to display it as proof that all my work was worthless. He could bury the collection's history by burying my authority. A correction would cost me pride. His announcement would cost the museum the truth.                                         |
| OPPORTUNITY | I carried the corrected citation sheet to Grant once before the toast. Its fold had a red mark on it. He wanted one corrected inference treated as a retraction of the entire article. I offered to correct the sentence that was wrong. He wanted a different author. I went back to the gallery afterward and did not approach his service table again. | I carried a working carbon of the citation sheet to the private service station. It had a red mark across its fold when I delivered it. Grant wanted one corrected inference treated as a retraction of the whole article. I offered to correct the sentence that was wrong. He wanted a different author. |
| METHOD      | The clerk embossed RECEIVED into my original citation sheet while I waited. I felt the raised letters before taking that same sheet straight to Grant. The reference identifies an archive. His checkbook did not improve the citation.                                                                                                                   | The red pencil marks a citation I corrected on the working carbon. That is the copy I gave Grant. The clerk still had the original for embossing when I left the desk. One amended reference does not retract an article, however convenient that would have been for him.                                 |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The original was embossed before the complete sole service approach. The RECEIVED seal was first activated after the glass cover closed. Thus the document sequence places the only approach after interior access ended. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: overstated. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Tess Tament / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | Grant called me ornamental. Then he demanded my signature on the family trust. Apparently ornaments can execute legal documents. I organized the trustees against him. The money was supposed to support people, and his new plan mostly supported a very expensive sign saying GRANT. The entrance attendant admitted me for the first time at 6:31.                               | Grant called me ornamental while waving a trust amendment that would remove my vote. I organized the trustees against him, but he had enough signatures to destroy our plan tonight. He thought I would cry beautifully and approve the paperwork. I had finished being useful decoration. The entrance attendant admitted me for the first time at 6:17.                           |
| OPPORTUNITY | The attendant checked me in from the car and issued it then. I wasn't inside earlier. I supervised the trustees' objection, including its punctuation. Grant inspected every signature as if handwriting might restore his popularity. During the trustees' meeting, my little perfume bottle stayed in my bag. I didn't need to pour anything out to make that meeting unpleasant. | The attendant checked me in from the car and issued it then. I wasn't inside earlier. I supervised the trustees' objection, including its punctuation. Grant inspected every signature as if handwriting might restore his popularity. During the trustees' meeting, my little perfume bottle stayed in my bag. I didn't need to pour anything out to make that meeting unpleasant. |
| METHOD      | My entrance receipt records the admission I described. The trustees' objection went to Grant; my little bottle went with me. He mistook a carefully dressed woman for an agreeable signature. The objection was meant to correct that mistake in writing.                                                                                                                           | My entrance receipt documents the admission I described. The trustees' objection went to Grant; my little bottle went with me. He mistook a carefully dressed woman for an agreeable signature. The objection was meant to correct that mistake in writing.                                                                                                                         |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

Tess entered the museum for the first time at 6:31 after the preparation room was locked at 6:28; her entrance receipt is a staff-issued arrival record, not a photo timestamp. No guest access beforehand. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: trustees. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Barb Dwyer / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I ordered the technician to unplug the Salon camera on Grant's instruction. I should have refused. He said he needed private meetings and that security would own any failure afterward. That's a lovely chain of command: he gives the order, I inherit the consequences, and the camera gets the evening off. I started checking passes at the north gate at 6:15.                                                                 | I ordered the technician to unplug the camera. Grant gave the order and promised to blame security if anything went wrong. He wanted privacy without responsibility. I kept the work order, although it didn't include his threat. He was very careful about what he put where someone might find it. I started checking passes at the north gate at 6:08.                                                                           |
| OPPORTUNITY | Throughout the task, I pressed every manual turnstile release while she checked the pass beside me. I stayed beside her at the north gate throughout the shift; the gate wasn't admitting anyone automatically. The camera order in my pocket was signed by Grant. He wanted privacy for one meeting and then wanted security blamed for the blind spot. I kept the paper. I may dislike paperwork, but I recognize a future excuse. | Throughout the task, I pressed every manual turnstile release while she checked the pass beside me. I stayed beside her at the north gate throughout the shift; the gate wasn't admitting anyone automatically. The camera order in my pocket was signed by Grant. He wanted privacy for one meeting and then wanted security blamed for the blind spot. I kept the paper. I may dislike paperwork, but I recognize a future excuse. |
| METHOD      | My assistant took over the releases at 6:30. Later I handled the linen beside Grant's setting during an inspection. The signed camera order records what he requested. It doesn't record his threat to make security take the blame.                                                                                                                                                                                                 | My assistant took over the releases at 6:18. Later I handled the linen beside Grant's setting during an inspection. The signed camera order records what he requested. It doesn't record his threat to make security take the blame.                                                                                                                                                                                                 |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

Barb manually admits the setup queue at the north turnstile continuously throughout the sample access period; the staff assistant checks each pass alongside her. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: unplug. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Paige Turner / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I went into the preparation room through the east visitor entrance during the walkthrough. The reference labels were useful background for my reporting. Grant threatened an injunction and my source. A rich man threatening a newspaper is weather. Threatening the person who trusted me is different. I concealed that source and kept the documents. You can ask me about my reporting. You cannot have their name as a party favor. | I went into the preparation room through the east visitor entrance during the walkthrough. The reference labels were useful background for my reporting. Grant threatened my source and offered me a softer story. I concealed the source. I also kept his offer, because nothing improves a denial like having it in writing. He believed the injunction would silence us before his speech. He had mistaken a deadline for a surrender date. |
| OPPORTUNITY | I delivered one revised proof to Grant at the service station before the toast. A red mark crossed the fold. Counsel had insisted on a correction; Grant insisted on my source's name. The proof contained the correction. I left him reading it and returned to my notes. There was no other trip to that station.                                                                                                                       | I delivered the working carbon of my revised proof to the private service station. A red mark crossed its fold. Counsel had insisted on correcting a paragraph. Grant wanted my source's name in exchange for dropping his injunction threat. The proof did not contain it. That omission was quite intentional.                                                                                                                               |
| METHOD      | The proof I handed him was the original. I watched the clerk press RECEIVED into it, ran my thumb over the raised letters, and then carried it to Grant. My source's name stayed out. Grant was free to object to the paragraph without acquiring the person behind it.                                                                                                                                                                   | That thick red line deletes the description that could identify my source. I handed Grant a working carbon. The clerk embossed the retained original afterward. The deletion was deliberate, and I will defend it. Grant could challenge the reporting without buying the person who helped me do it.                                                                                                                                          |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The original was embossed before the complete sole service approach. The RECEIVED seal was first activated after the glass cover closed. Thus the document sequence places the only approach after interior access ended. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: source. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Frank Lloyd Wrong / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

| IF INNOCENT |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | IF MURDERER |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I entered preparation by the east door during the walkthrough to examine the display supports on the shelves. Grant thought a photograph would have been sufficient. I signed off on a temporary lighting rig below my own standard. Grant demanded another load and threatened to withhold payment if I refused. A drawing can accommodate many unreasonable requests. Gravity remains annoyingly independent of the donor agreement. I should have stopped the installation sooner. The rigger raised me to the lighting gantry at 6:36. |             | I entered preparation by the east door during the walkthrough to examine the display supports on the shelves. Grant thought a photograph would have been sufficient. The temporary rig was my compromise, and Grant used it to demand a worse one. He wanted the display altered tonight and my firm blamed for any failure. I had designed a museum gala. He was commissioning a lawsuit with dramatic lighting. The rigger raised me to the lighting gantry at 6:29. |
| OPPORTUNITY | The harness stayed attached until he lowered me. Its release was at ground level, beyond my reach. We kept inspecting the load points up there; I could point and complain, but I couldn't control the descent. Grant had added a fixture to the temporary rig without asking what held it up. I had concealed another unsafe alteration myself. That didn't make his addition acceptable. It made the conversation between two men with diagrams considerably louder.                                                                     |             | The harness stayed attached until he lowered me. Its release was at ground level, beyond my reach. We kept inspecting the load points up there; I could point and complain, but I couldn't control the descent. Grant had added a fixture to the temporary rig without asking what held it up. I had concealed another unsafe alteration myself. That didn't make his addition acceptable. It made the conversation between two men with diagrams considerably louder. |
| METHOD      | The rigger lowered me from the gantry at 6:47. Grant's added fixture was still an unacceptable load.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |             | The rigger lowered me from the gantry at 6:38. Grant's added fixture was still an unacceptable load.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

Frank is tethered on the lighting gantry through the service window; a staff rigger only lowers him after the cover was sealed, and the controls are at ground level. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: rig. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Mona Lott / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I leaked the restitution talks. Quiet diplomacy had become a polite room where Grant could keep saying no. He intended to announce permanent ownership tonight. I wanted the people represented by the collection to have a voice stronger than the donor's microphone. I broke confidentiality to obtain it.                                                                     | I leaked the talks. Grant was about to turn confidential negotiations into a public declaration that nothing would ever be returned. He offered the partners a photograph beside their own heritage. I had exhausted the courteous versions of disagreement.                                                                        |
| OPPORTUNITY | I delivered the translated amendment to Grant, with a red mark across its folded signature panel. He wanted LOAN translated as PERMANENT ACQUISITION. I had already leaked the restitution talks. He mentioned discretion. I asked which language he wanted that sentence translated into. I delivered the amendment once and made no other service-table visit before the toast. | I delivered a working carbon of the translated amendment to the private service station. A red mark crossed its folded signature panel. Grant wanted LOAN translated as PERMANENT ACQUISITION. I had already leaked the restitution talks. He mentioned discretion. I asked which language he wanted that sentence translated into. |
| METHOD      | RECEIVED stands above the paper surface on the original amendment. I watched the clerk emboss it, checked that it had not obscured LOAN, and took the amendment to Grant. The signature panel still says LOAN. I had translated the agreement he disliked.                                                                                                                        | My red pencil underlines LOAN on the carbon I delivered. I wanted Grant to read the same word in both languages. The original stayed at the desk and received its embossing afterward. He called my translation unhelpful. It was accurate.                                                                                         |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The original was embossed before the complete sole service approach. The RECEIVED seal was first activated after the glass cover closed. Thus the document sequence places the only approach after interior access ended. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: leaked. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Elon Mosaic / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I was the anonymous buyer. Hugh handled the bid so Grant wouldn't inflate the price merely to punish me. Grant then threatened to block my board appointment and describe my collecting as speculative theater. I do enjoy theater. I prefer the seats to come with an actual purchase receipt.                                                        | The anonymous buyer was me. Grant lost, then decided the auction required a moral inquiry into my character. He intended to announce it tonight and kill my board appointment. A man who purchased the naming rights to a museum objected to someone else purchasing an object.                                                  |
| OPPORTUNITY | I brought Grant the installation proposal. The folded price page had a red mark. He was offended by my anonymous auction purchase and asked how much his name would cost in the installation. I had omitted it from the estimate. I made that single delivery, then returned to the galleries; I did not revisit the service station before the toast. | I delivered a working carbon of the installation proposal to the private service station. A red mark crossed the folded price page. Grant was offended by my anonymous auction purchase and asked how much his name would cost in the installation. I had not included it in the estimate. An omission can be a design decision. |
| METHOD      | I had the original proposal embossed RECEIVED at the desk before delivering it. The clerk let me feel the raised impression. I had wanted to see whether it spoiled the price-page layout. The concealed auction purchase is mine too. Grant did not get to edit either transaction.                                                                   | The red number is my revised price, written on the working carbon. That is what I carried to Grant. The clerk embossed the original later. The anonymous auction purchase was mine, and so was the price. He wanted a concession on both because he had discovered one.                                                          |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The original was embossed before the complete sole service approach. The RECEIVED seal was first activated after the glass cover closed. Thus the document sequence places the only approach after interior access ended. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: anonymous buyer. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Anya Tique / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | In 1989 I accepted Grant's donation with incomplete papers. We needed money, and I believed the documents would follow. They did not. He planned to call that my founding principle tonight. It was a compromise I regretted, not permission for him to repeat it indefinitely. The staffed entrance admitted me for the first time at 6:30.                                                                     | The 1989 acceptance bears my signature. Grant intended to unveil it as proof that I had built the museum on his generosity and should stop questioning it. I had given him a place in the collection. He wanted to turn that mistake into ownership of the institution. The staffed entrance admitted me for the first time at 6:16.                                                                             |
| OPPORTUNITY | It is an entrance record, not an autograph collected at dinner. I had not entered earlier. I brought the old accession promise, protected in its linen sleeve. My signature was on an incomplete file. Grant wanted the exhibition to proceed as if the missing export document had arrived. I had spent years waiting for that paper. He proposed solving the problem by retiring the person who remembered it. | It is an entrance record, not an autograph collected at dinner. I had not entered earlier. I brought the old accession promise, protected in its linen sleeve. My signature was on an incomplete file. Grant wanted the exhibition to proceed as if the missing export document had arrived. I had spent years waiting for that paper. He proposed solving the problem by retiring the person who remembered it. |
| METHOD      | The staffed guest book records the first admission I described. My signature on the accession shows that I accepted an incomplete file. It does not make the promised export document exist.                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | The staffed guest book documents the first admission I described. My signature on the accession shows that I accepted an incomplete file. It does not make the promised export document exist.                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

Anya first enters at 6:30, after reference access ends; the staffed check-in guest book is an actual entry record rather than a retrospective autograph. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: 1989. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Saul D. Bid / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I routed the sale through a subsidiary. The client demanded discretion, and I supplied a discreet invoice with an indiscreet fee. Grant threatened to expose the arrangement unless I waived that fee. He admired confidentiality until someone charged him for it.                                                                                  | The subsidiary sale was mine. Grant wanted the fee waived and the arrangement buried. Otherwise he would announce it tonight as my personal scandal. I have auctioned many ugly objects. His proposal had particularly poor proportions.                                                                                                        |
| OPPORTUNITY | I presented the subsidiary fee statement beside the steward and Grant's wrapped glass. I examined the museum logo spanning the closed package seam while Grant examined my fee. We both like to know whether something has been tampered with. The museum logo was unbroken when I departed. That was my sole service-table meeting before he drank. | I presented the subsidiary fee statement at the private service station. Grant read it beside the glass, with blue material below it and no steward beside us. He knew the fee and demanded the client's identity too. I offered to discuss the fee. He preferred to discuss my reputation. An auction without numbers is generally unpleasant. |
| METHOD      | The steward kept the package, and I kept the unsigned fee statement. The subsidiary concealed a client's name, not a different fee. Grant wanted to purchase discretion and then deduct its price because he disliked the answer.                                                                                                                    | The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat. Its museum logo was embroidery, and the glass was open. The subsidiary concealed a client's name, not a different fee. Grant expected discretion to become free once he threatened its seller.                                                                                               |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The complete sole service approach ends while the same glass remains inside intact sealed blue wrapping under staff watch. Its interior is inaccessible; later reacquisition is excluded by the spoken complete account. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: subsidiary. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Elle Loominate / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | The loan paperwork is incomplete because I feared my family would refuse. Grant then offered to buy the textile as if that solved consent. It isn't a decorative opportunity. People in my family remember who made it, and none of those names is Grant.                                                                             | I brought the textile without all the family paperwork. Grant saw that weakness and announced he would purchase it. I told him it wasn't for sale. He answered with a larger number. He treated consent like a reserve price he hadn't reached yet.                                                                                 |
| OPPORTUNITY | Conservation had the textile loan amendment. I stood at the west counter while the assistant hunted for our sleeve. I could see the corridor, a solid partition, and the assistant's increasingly irritated face. I took the returned sleeve straight to Grant. That counter exchange accounts for my whole contact with preparation. | I brought the textile's incomplete loan papers to conservation. I went through the east visitor door to the shelves and retrieved the amended sleeve inside. Grant had mistaken possession for permission to buy. My family had lent an object, not appointed me its auctioneer. I had left too much of that distinction unwritten. |
| METHOD      | The sleeve carries the WEST RETURN stamp. The amendment came through the staff slot into my hands. LOAN is written in full-sized letters. Grant wanted to call that word a clerical error. For once, the clerical work was excellent.                                                                                                 | EAST VISITOR is stamped on the sleeve. I retrieved it from the shelves inside. The amendment says LOAN in full-sized letters. Grant wanted to call that word a clerical error. For once, the clerical work was excellent.                                                                                                           |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

The complete single preparation contact stays outside the fixed west return barrier; only east visitor access reaches the sole source. No revisit or transfer is left unaccounted for. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: paperwork. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Reed DeLabel / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | Grant threatened my fellowship after I found a document contradicting the Star Bowl label. The same document undermines a sentence in Art's research. I concealed that second problem. Being the youngest researcher does not make delivering two unpleasant truths feel like a promising career strategy.  | The fellowship was my livelihood. Grant said it would disappear if I challenged the label. My discovery also embarrassed Art, and I had kept that quiet. Nobody wanted the document until it could be used against someone. I wanted it read for what it actually said.                                                                           |
| OPPORTUNITY | I submitted the transcription at the west counter. The assistant checked the accession number inside; I waited outside the partition and rehearsed how to admit I had concealed an implication for Art's work. When the paper came back, I left. I did not return to preparation or enter its visitor room. | I submitted the transcription for a conservation reference check. I went through the east visitor door and compared its accession number with the original on the shelves inside. I had concealed one implication for Art's work to protect my fellowship. Discovering something and reporting it turn out to require different kinds of courage. |
| METHOD      | WEST RETURN is on the reference slip beside the assistant's initials. The checked original came back across the counter. It contradicts the exhibition label and one sentence in Art's work. Withdrawing my fellowship would leave both sentences wrong.                                                    | The reference slip reads EAST VISITOR. I handled the comparison inside. The original contradicts the exhibition label and one sentence in Art's work. Neither problem disappears by withdrawing my fellowship. One problem may become more expensive to discuss.                                                                                  |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

The complete single preparation contact stays outside the fixed west return barrier; only east visitor access reaches the sole source. No revisit or transfer is left unaccounted for. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: fellowship. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Al Baster / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I changed an internal support after the fabricator missed the deadline. Grant intended to replace my original with a cheap replica and dispute the final payment. A sculpture's support is supposed to remain invisible. Apparently he wanted the sculptor's labor to follow the same principle. The mold began separating at 6:36.                                                                                                           | The support differs from the approved drawing. Grant discovered it and used that fact to justify replacing my sculpture with a replica. He would keep the opening-night photograph and refuse the balance. I was commissioned to make art, then invited to finance his imitation of it. The mold began separating at 6:29.                                                                                                                    |
| OPPORTUNITY | Both my hands held the mold until that last clamp. The earlier clamps couldn't hold both halves; letting go would have separated them. The assistant was helping close the mold around a concealed support. My drawing showed the approved design, not what I had built. Grant wanted that discrepancy used to replace the whole sculpture. I wanted to correct the drawing. Neither of us was especially interested in the other's proposal. | Both my hands held the mold until that last clamp. The earlier clamps couldn't hold both halves; letting go would have separated them. The assistant was helping close the mold around a concealed support. My drawing showed the approved design, not what I had built. Grant wanted that discrepancy used to replace the whole sculpture. I wanted to correct the drawing. Neither of us was especially interested in the other's proposal. |
| METHOD      | The assistant tightened the final clamp at 6:46. The concealed support differs from the plan. It deserves an accurate drawing, not a patron's excuse to replace the entire sculpture.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | The assistant tightened the final clamp at 6:38. The concealed support differs from the plan. It deserves an accurate drawing, not a patron's excuse to replace the entire sculpture.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

Al holds a failing plaster mold with both hands continuously across the service window while a staff assistant clamps its support; releasing it would collapse the ongoing work. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: support. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Ella Gance / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I sold the work I had promised to donate. A failed investment made the promise unaffordable, and I hoped to replace it before anyone noticed. Grant intended to announce the discrepancy at dinner. He appreciated generosity most when it supplied a weapon against another donor. The entrance attendant admitted me for the first time at 6:32.                       | I sold the promised donation to cover a failed investment. Grant offered silence if I publicly endorsed his naming agreement. Otherwise he would explain my finances to the entire room. He could have asked for support. He preferred having something to hold over the supporter. The entrance attendant admitted me for the first time at 6:16.                       |
| OPPORTUNITY | The attendant issued it when I came from outside, and I hadn't entered earlier. I gave Grant a loan letter wrapped in silk. The replacement would hide the fact that I had sold something promised as a donation. I folded the silk while he read. He wanted a public announcement of my failure. I wanted a quiet replacement accepted. Neither request was charitable. | The attendant issued it when I came from outside, and I hadn't entered earlier. I gave Grant a loan letter wrapped in silk. The replacement would hide the fact that I had sold something promised as a donation. I folded the silk while he read. He wanted a public announcement of my failure. I wanted a quiet replacement accepted. Neither request was charitable. |
| METHOD      | The entrance record is the first admission I described. I folded the silk wrapping while he read. The replacement would conceal my failed promise. It was a financial compromise I should have explained to the institution expecting the original.                                                                                                                      | The entrance record confirms the first admission I described. I folded the silk wrapping while he read. The replacement would conceal my failed promise. It was a financial compromise I should have explained to the institution expecting the original.                                                                                                                |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

Ella's staffed entrance record marks her first arrival at 6:32, after the preparation room was locked; the branch excludes an earlier entry. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: sold. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Drew Conclusions / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | The anonymous newsletter is mine. Some jokes came from private conversations, and one hurt somebody who didn't deserve it. Grant planned to expose the author tonight. I was prepared to admit the newsletter. I was considerably less prepared to let him introduce it as a tribute to himself.                                                                 | I wrote the newsletter and used private conversations I should have protected. Grant would unmask me at the gala and have my professional invitations withdrawn. He demanded favorable coverage in exchange. A man unable to recognize satire had finally discovered its author and wished to become its editor. |
| OPPORTUNITY | I brought the revised newsletter page to Grant at the service station. The steward watched him read. There was a white museum logo printed across the seam of the blue package containing his glass. I considered drawing a mustache on it. I left it joined exactly as I found it and handed over my page. I did not visit that station again before the toast. | I brought the revised newsletter page to the private service station. Grant read beside the glass on blue material while the steward was away. I offered to delete the cruel joke. Grant wanted his biography added. It was the first negotiation in which silence seemed like the ambitious option.             |
| METHOD      | The anonymous joke was mine. The correction in Grant's handwriting is a paragraph about his philanthropy, followed by a request for a larger portrait. The steward took the page. I took my pencil. Neither of us acquired the other's editorial judgment.                                                                                                       | The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat, its museum logo stitched. The glass stood open on it. I wrote the anonymous joke. Grant's correction would have turned it into an advertisement, with a remarkably defensive subject.                                                                         |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The complete sole service approach ends while the same glass remains inside intact sealed blue wrapping under staff watch. Its interior is inaccessible; later reacquisition is excluded by the spoken complete account. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: newsletter. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Brie DeVivre / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|-------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I joined the preparation walkthrough through the east visitor door. I checked which shelves held museum materials before collecting anything for catering. Grant refused my invoice, then ordered a new private service. He and his assistant gave opposite instructions. I changed the setup twice and billed the changes. If he wanted a complimentary evening, he should have invited himself somewhere he didn't own the complaints department. | I joined the preparation walkthrough through the east visitor door. I checked which shelves held museum materials before collecting anything for catering. Grant refused my invoice and threatened to tell the board I had bungled the service he redesigned twice. I kept the change orders. He called them excuses. I told him a chef can absorb a criticism. Absorbing payroll is considerably harder. He laughed at my staff's wages. |
| OPPORTUNITY | I brought the final invoice to the steward at Grant's service station. He kept the glass in its blue package while checking the additions. The printed museum logo crossed the sealed join. It was still unbroken when he kept the invoice and sent me back to catering. I stayed away from that station until after the toast; that was my entire earlier visit.                                                                                   | I delivered the final invoice to the private service station. Grant checked the additions beside the glass on blue material while the steward was away. He wanted to call the extras hospitality. I wanted him to call them payable. The private service used a separate glass, not a separate recipe.                                                                                                                                    |
| METHOD      | The invoice charges for Grant's additions, including the private glass. The punch came from the common supply. He kept calling the extras hospitality. I kept writing them down. My service linen carried the ordinary kitchen mess; it did not create a special recipe for him.                                                                                                                                                                    | The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat, with a stitched museum logo. The glass was unwrapped. The linen was for service, not a special drink ingredient. My bill grew because Grant kept changing his mind.                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The complete sole service approach ends while the same glass remains inside intact sealed blue wrapping under staff watch. Its interior is inaccessible; later reacquisition is excluded by the spoken complete account. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: invoice. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Cary Crates / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I concealed a repairable frame crack with a reversible mount. Grant saw it and threatened my job. He wanted the frame immaculate for photographs and the handler gone afterward. I should have reported the crack at once. Quietly fixing things is not always the same as doing them right. The freight lift stopped between floors at 6:37.                                                              | The crack was my fault, and the mount concealed it. Grant threatened to have me fired after the gala. I offered to repair the frame. He preferred making an example of the person who carried it. Heavy objects rarely care about your status. Their owners make up for that. The freight lift stopped between floors at 6:29.                                                                             |
| OPPORTUNITY | I stayed in the cabin until the release. It was stuck between floors with interlocked doors and no other exit. The lift stopped while I was bringing down the repair estimate. Grant's frame had a repairable crack that I had concealed. The reversible mount hadn't caused further damage. I intended to explain both facts together. Getting trapped with the estimate did not improve the explanation. | I stayed in the cabin until the release. It was stuck between floors with interlocked doors and no other exit. The lift stopped while I was bringing down the repair estimate. Grant's frame had a repairable crack that I had concealed. The reversible mount hadn't caused further damage. I intended to explain both facts together. Getting trapped with the estimate did not improve the explanation. |
| METHOD      | The mechanic released the stranded lift at 6:46. The frame crack was repairable. Concealing it made the decision worse, even if the reversible mount itself did no further damage.                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | The mechanic released the stranded lift at 6:38. The frame crack was repairable. Concealing it made the decision worse, even if the reversible mount itself did no further damage.                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

Cary is trapped in the interlocked freight lift between floors across the service window; staff release the brake only after the cover was sealed. No exit or Salon route exists from the stranded cabin. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: crack. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Anne E. Dote / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | The anonymous petition was mine. Grant wanted the education budget turned into a private lounge. I slipped copies into trustee folders. If trustees can spend an evening discussing champagne access, they can spend two minutes discussing children's access. I didn't request permission for the comparison. | I organized the petition and put it in the trustee folders. Grant threatened to cancel the program before it became an embarrassment. He thought children were an attractive subject for a brochure and an inconvenient population in a building. I had run out of gracious replies.                                                                          |
| OPPORTUNITY | The puppet's loan tag was filed in preparation. I asked for it at the west counter and made the puppet complain about the wait. The assistant passed it through the slot; the puppet thanked him. We stayed in the corridor the whole time. That was our one errand to the department before the toast.        | The puppet's loan tag had been filed with the installation materials. I used the east visitor door and fetched it from the shelves inside. I used its blank reverse for another petition signature. If Grant wanted fewer children in the museum, I intended to put more names in front of him. He disliked the handwriting almost as much as the arithmetic. |
| METHOD      | The tag says WEST RETURN. Its reverse now has another petition signature, acquired after the assistant handed it out. Grant proposed a workshop with his name on it while cutting the staff who would run it. The puppet is still waiting to hear how that works.                                              | The tag is marked EAST VISITOR. I fetched it inside. My petition went to Grant afterward. A workshop bearing his name would not replace the staff and access his cuts removed. The puppet had a more sensible funding proposal.                                                                                                                               |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

The complete single preparation contact stays outside the fixed west return barrier; only east visitor access reaches the sole source. No revisit or transfer is left unaccounted for. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: petition. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Faye Stop / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I kept a backup after agreeing to delete the photograph. It shows Grant and Hugh beside a shipping file. Grant demanded the image because, apparently, candid photography is excellent until the subject is candid. I had already surrendered one version of the truth. I kept another.                                                         | The backup survived. Grant threatened to have my commission canceled and my archive searched. He said the image lacked context. I offered to photograph the context too. That did not improve our conversation or his opinion of my professional future.                                                                     |
| OPPORTUNITY | I brought the retained print to the west counter for a backing check. I waited on the corridor side of the partition while an assistant found a sleeve, then left with both print and sleeve. That exchange was the beginning and end of my visit to preparation. Grant had demanded deletion of the camera image. I had kept a separate print. | I asked conservation to check the damaged backing of my retained print. I entered by the east visitor door and collected a support sleeve from the shelves inside. Grant had demanded deletion of the camera image. He had not asked the right question about the separate print, and I hadn't volunteered the right answer. |
| METHOD      | The sleeve's issue line reads WEST RETURN. The assistant passed it out to me with the photograph inside. The print shows the meeting beside the shipping papers. Grant had asked about a camera file, and I let him think he had asked about every copy.                                                                                        | EAST VISITOR appears on the sleeve's issue line. I collected the sleeve inside. The backup is a physical print, not the deleted camera file. It shows the meeting beside the shipping papers. Grant's preference for an empty folder did not alter what the camera had seen.                                                 |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES TAKING THE POISON

The complete single preparation contact stays outside the fixed west return barrier; only east visitor access reaches the sole source. No revisit or transfer is left unaccounted for. Apply Evidence 2 + 4.

Suspicious admission in both branches: backup. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Robin Banks / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | The stickers were mine. PROVENANCE IS A VERB fits nicely in a brochure that treats ownership as a permanent noun. Grant had me removed from an earlier event and threatened legal action tonight. I came to make the collection's history visible. He wanted me visible only on a security notice.                                                          | I planted the stickers because another polite letter had accomplished nothing. Grant threatened to have me removed again before the unveiling. He would announce permanent ownership while the people asking questions waited outside. A gala was becoming another ceremony of possession.           |
| OPPORTUNITY | I asked Grant to read the provenance brochure at his service station. The steward had the glass inside a blue package whose printed museum logo crossed the shut seam. Grant called my stickers offensive. I gave the steward the brochure and left; the museum logo was still joined. That conversation was my only visit to the station before the toast. | I asked Grant to read my provenance brochure at the private service station. The glass stood on blue material while the steward was away. Grant called the protest stickers offensive. I thought the disputed ownership stories were more offensive. We were comparing different forms of bad taste. |
| METHOD      | I kept the stickers. The brochure stayed with the steward, who had watched the entire exchange. I had planned a peaceful protest, and I had already put stickers in gallery brochures. Grant would have found the same demand for provenance in several places that night.                                                                                  | The blue material was the reusable cloth placemat; its museum logo was stitched. The glass above it was open. I left the brochure and took my stickers away. They asked people to think about provenance. Grant preferred an easier question, such as the size of his plaque.                        |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The complete sole service approach ends while the same glass remains inside intact sealed blue wrapping under staff watch. Its interior is inaccessible; later reacquisition is excluded by the spoken complete account. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: stickers. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Penny Pincher / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I brought the family letters. They show that we contested the sale Grant called perfectly voluntary. I intended to confront him. He valued the object generously when displaying it and remembered its purchase price with astonishing modesty. I can recognize a bargain without mistaking it for justice.                            | The family letters contradict Grant's story. He offered to buy them too, as if purchasing the evidence would improve the sale. I wanted our object back. He wanted another invoice proving that people with less money had agreed to his version of events.                                                                 |
| OPPORTUNITY | I took Grant the family letters with a red mark across their cover sheet. Their account of the disputed sale would embarrass my family too. He offered to buy the letters. I asked whether the price included the right to stop reading them. I left the service table afterward. That was the only time I visited it before he drank. | I brought a working carbon of the family letters' cover sheet to the private service station. It carried a red mark across its fold. The disputed sale included facts my family would rather not advertise. Grant offered to buy the letters themselves. I asked whether the price included the right to stop reading them. |
| METHOD      | The original cover sheet has raised RECEIVED letters. The clerk embossed it in front of me; I made sure the impression missed my grandmother's handwriting, then carried the letters to Grant. The receipt acknowledges the papers. It does not sell them.                                                                             | I corrected the sale date in red pencil on the carbon cover sheet I gave Grant. The clerk embossed the original afterward. My grandmother's letters explain why that date matters. Grant offered to buy the evidence of the disputed sale along with the silence he expected to accompany it.                               |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The original was embossed before the complete sole service approach. The RECEIVED seal was first activated after the glass cover closed. Thus the document sequence places the only approach after interior access ended. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: family letters. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Justin Tyme / branch comparison

CONFIRMED GUEST / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I owe Tulsa a correction. Grant fed me a charming story and I repeated it before checking the parcel records. He wanted the error preserved as local history. I've seen too many confident men turn a convenient story into a plaque. I was about to remove his plaque, figuratively speaking.                                | My correction would expose Grant and embarrass me. I could live with that. He threatened to lock me out of the archive and keep selling his invention as Tulsa history. People love a tidy origin story. This one had a deed attached, and the deed disagreed with him.                                                    |
| OPPORTUNITY | I carried Grant my corrected parcel story. The folded print had a red mark. I had published his earlier account and now had to admit I had believed it. He offered another story. I asked him to show it on the map. I made one trip to his service station before the toast, delivered the print, and went back to my notes. | I brought a working carbon of the corrected parcel story to the private service station. Its fold carried a red mark. I had believed Grant's earlier account and published it. The land record required a correction. Grant offered another story. I already owned enough of those; this time I wanted an actual boundary. |
| METHOD      | I watched the clerk emboss RECEIVED into the original print before I took it to Grant. The raised impression sits across my map key, which annoyed me considerably. The corrected parcel boundary stays where the land record puts it. Grant's version had been much easier to tell at a bar.                                 | The red correction restores the parcel line on my working carbon. I delivered that print; the original acquired its receiving impression afterward. I had published Grant's earlier story without checking the boundary. I was about to publish a less entertaining story with the correct boundary in it.                 |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

The original was embossed before the complete sole service approach. The RECEIVED seal was first activated after the glass cover closed. Thus the document sequence places the only approach after interior access ended. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: correction. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.

Minnie Malist / branch comparison

RESERVE CHARACTER / Read the three accounts together; do not judge a single answer in isolation.

|             | IF INNOCENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | IF MURDERER                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| MOTIVE      | I changed the cue after approval. Grant wanted a gaudy spectacle and threatened payment when Frank objected. I gave the room a simpler sequence. The flickers were my correction, badly timed. Minimalism loses some dignity when it has to apologize to an electrician. The electrician and I began the manual lighting test at 6:36.                                                                                                                                  | I changed the cue because Grant's version made the unveiling look like a discount casino. He threatened to withhold payment and tell the board I had ruined his moment. I had designed restraint. He considered that a failure to display enough of his money at once. The electrician and I began the manual lighting test at 6:29.                                                                                                                                    |
| OPPORTUNITY | The test lever is fixed to the lighting console in the control booth, separate from the Donor Salon. I held it continuously beside the electrician; releasing it stops the test. The automatic gallery lights afterward were a separate operation. I had changed the approved cue without permission. Grant wanted the cue sheet. I sent it along afterward. He called the flickers sabotage. I called them an adjustment, which didn't make their timing less foolish. | The test lever is fixed to the lighting console in the control booth, separate from the Donor Salon. I held it continuously beside the electrician; releasing it stops the test. The automatic gallery lights afterward were a separate operation. I had changed the approved cue without permission. Grant wanted the cue sheet. I sent it along afterward. He called the flickers sabotage. I called them an adjustment, which didn't make their timing less foolish. |
| METHOD      | The electrician ended the test at 6:47. I changed the approved design without permission. The flickers were a badly timed correction to an already bad choice.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | The electrician ended the test at 6:38. I changed the approved design without permission. The flickers were a badly timed correction to an already bad choice.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

WHY THE INNOCENT ACCOUNT EXCLUDES REACHING THE INSIDE OF THE GLASS

Minnie holds a spring-return lighting test lever continuously through the service window while the staff electrician calls live changes; releasing it stops the test. Apply Evidence 3 + 5.

Suspicious admission in both branches: changed the cue. The murderer account contains no complete exclusion of either required action.