Board Draft: The Naming Gift

A draft agreement proposes renaming the institution 'The Sterling Voss Meridian Museum' and gives the donor extraordinary influence over future acquisitions.

ACT I / Discovery 02

Geneva Shipping Manifest

A 1988 shipping record routes the Isfahan Star Bowl through a Geneva freeport under a shell company called Northstar Holdings. The owner line is blacked out.

ACT I / Discovery 03

Unsigned Warning

*RETURN WHAT WAS TAKEN BEFORE THE STAR GOES DARK.
No signature. The paper is ordinary museum stationery.*

ACT I / Discovery 04

Embargoed Headline

A printout from Nadia Quill's notebook reads: 'THE MISSING
DECADE IN THE VOSS COLLECTION - HOLD FOR 9:00 PM.'

ACT I / Discovery 05

Conservation Note

Rafael Gilt flagged modern adhesive beneath the Star Bowl's base, suggesting the object was remounted later than the public catalogue claims.

ACT I / Discovery 06

Legal Margin Note

On a draft donor agreement, someone has written: 'Permanent title does not cure disputed title.' The initials are H.C.

ACT I / Discovery 07

Auction Catalogue

A lot in an old auction catalogue is circled twice. In the margin:
'T.G. beat S.V. through proxy buyer. He will never forgive this.'

ACT I / Discovery 08

Student Painting Card

A label mock-up describes an 'early student work by Julian Brush, loaned by Sterling Voss.' Someone has written NO in thick pencil across the proof.

ACT I / Discovery 09

Education Budget

A draft budget moves money away from school tours and community programs toward a private donor lounge and new VIP entrance.

ACT I / Discovery 10

Camera Work Order

The Donor Salon security camera was intentionally taken offline for 'private donor meetings' during the gala.

ACT I / Discovery 11

1989 Accession Page

An old accession notebook records one of Sterling Voss's earliest gifts with the note: 'Export papers promised - not yet received.'

ACT I / Discovery 12

Performance Sketch

A concept drawing by Imogen Muse resembles the gala's final reveal almost exactly, but the printed program credits the spectacle only to 'The Voss Foundation.'

ACT I / Discovery 13

Condition Photo

A setup photograph shows a faint crescent scratch already present on the cap of a replica service decanter used in the gallery display.

ACT I / Discovery 14

Crate Seal

A broken shipping seal from a recent crate is stamped NORTHSTAR LOGISTICS. Calvin Case has written: 'Why is this name back?'

ACT I / Discovery 15

Lighting Cue Sheet

The centerpiece lights flickered during rehearsal because someone changed the programmed cue after approval. The revised sequence is initialed R.B.

ACT I / Discovery 16

Private Menu Card

Sterling's service note says: 'Private cordial in silver coupe. No garnish. Deliver to Donor Salon before remarks.'

ACT III / F1 / Release together

Toxicology

Sterling Voss died from a fast-acting botanical cardiac toxin placed directly in his private silver coupe. The decanter and buffet food test clean.

ACT III / F2 / Release together

Time Window

The toxin was most likely added between 6:40 and 6:49, after the cordial was prepared and before Sterling drank from it.

ACT III / F3 / Release together

Missing Sample

A small reference vial of the same toxin is missing from a locked conservation materials cabinet. The cabinet was opened during gala setup; the old lock does not record who opened it.

Camera Gap

The Donor Salon camera was offline from 6:29 until after Sterling was found. The outage was intentional, not a technical failure.

ACT III / F5 / Release together

Service Table

Sterling's silver coupe stem appears to have been wiped. The service tray contains several overlapping prints, making touch evidence inconclusive by itself.

ACT III / Evidence table

Release F1–F5 at the start of Act III. Compare timing, access and each character's evidence update. Keep unused A/B evidence cards private.
