

Everett Locke

ACT I / Before the murder

Your history with Sterling

Sterling ordered you to disable the Donor Salon camera because he planned several off-the-record meetings. He then told you that if anything went wrong tonight, security would 'own the failure.'

What you are hiding

You personally unplugged the camera despite museum policy. You did it under direct donor pressure and never documented the order. Do not volunteer this immediately. In Act II, protect it unless interrogation forces your hand; in Act III, reveal it if you need to defend yourself.

Your objectives

- Find out who knew the Donor Salon camera was offline.
- Keep the camera decision quiet until you understand the murder timeline.
- Ask Calvin whether anyone moved through the service corridor during Act I.

What you know about other guests

- Nadia tried to get private access to Sterling before dinner and was refused.
- Riley's last-minute lighting changes caused the eerie flicker some guests noticed during Act I.

Notes / Who will you speak to first?

ACT II / After Sterling dies

Follow your assigned branch. Keep it private. If you are the murderer, the innocent branch is a cover story you may claim.

IF INNOCENT

Your master key opened the salon at 6:29 when you disabled the camera. During the poison window, the main security panel records manual system checks under your code every ninety seconds from a console physically located in the security station. The log clears your timing but also proves you violated policy by disabling the camera.

IF MURDERER

You used your master key at 6:46 to re-enter the camera-blind salon. Furious that Sterling planned to blame you for any problem, you poisoned his cordial and relied on the missing footage to protect you.

ACT III / Evidence update

Your sealed evidence pair contains Cards A and B. If you are INNOCENT, secretly submit Card B. If you are the MURDERER, secretly submit Card A. Put the unused card away.

FINAL STATEMENT / Read only if called

IF INNOCENT

I shut off the camera because Sterling ordered me to. I should have documented it and I did not. That decision made the murder easier, which I will have to live with. The main security console records my manual checks every ninety seconds throughout the poisoning window. I never went back to the salon.

IF MURDERER

Sterling ordered me to blind the room and then told me security would take the fall if anything happened. He gave me the perfect crime scene himself. I went back with the master key, poisoned his drink, and trusted the dark camera to do exactly what he wanted: see nothing.