

Felix Savoy

ACT I / Before the murder

Your history with Sterling

Sterling had refused to approve the final catering invoice and planned to blame you for a last-minute service change he personally ordered.

What you are hiding

You changed his private beverage setup twice because Sterling and his assistant gave contradictory instructions. Do not volunteer this immediately. In Act II, protect it unless interrogation forces your hand; in Act III, reveal it if you need to defend yourself.

Your objectives

- Protect your private complication until you decide disclosure helps you.
- Use your public relationships to trade information rather than waiting for clues to come to you.
- Ask at least two people where they were during the poisoning window.

What you know about other guests

- Sterling changed his private cordial instructions more than once during setup.
- Margot has been fighting with the donor office about who is actually paying for tonight's excesses.

Notes / Who will you speak to first?

ACT II / After Sterling dies

Follow your assigned branch. Keep it private. If you are the murderer, the innocent branch is a cover story you may claim.

IF INNOCENT

Multiple staff and Riley place you at the buffet line during the critical minutes.

IF MURDERER

You were alone with the service tray at 6:46 and poisoned the cordial before sending it to the salon.

ACT III / Evidence update

Your sealed evidence pair contains Cards A and B. If you are INNOCENT, secretly submit Card B. If you are the MURDERER, secretly submit Card A. Put the unused card away.

FINAL STATEMENT / Read only if called

IF INNOCENT

Sterling changed his beverage instructions twice, and I changed the setup twice. I was afraid every contradictory service note would make me look responsible. But Margot and my staff place me at the buffet while the poison was added. I served the drink. I did not poison it.

IF MURDERER

Sterling ordered changes, refused the invoice, and was preparing to blame service for whatever confused him next. I had the tray, the access, and one private return no one expected. I poisoned the cordial at 6:46 and walked back to the buffet. Hospitality is the art of anticipating needs. I anticipated one too many.
